Dollar Devaluation Points a Moral in Government

The word from President Nixon's meeting with French President Pompidou in the Azores is that the United States will devalue the American dollar by about 5½ per cent and the "hard currency" countries such as Switzerland, West Germany, Japan, and Sweden will hike their money by the same percentage—to establish an orderly foreign exchange around the world.

First there was the British pound sterling that stood as the fulcrum upon which all other currencies were balanced. But Great Britain was drained by two world wars—and the pound had to be repeatedly devalued until it no longer deserved to be a currency-measuring stick.

The dollar took over as the world's currency pace-maker. But not for long. Prodigious spending both at home and abroad has brought upon us the inevitable result—devaluation.

The immediate effect shouldn't fall on U.S. residents in their home markets. But if you should travel abroad you will find your dollar doesn't buy as much as it did this year. A small import car will cost slightly more, and perhaps you will buy an American brand instead.

The irony of the situation is perfectly clear: The very nations that we helped rehabilitate themselves after we destroyed them in war saved their money while we were spending ours—and now their currencies, not ours, are on top.

If your Paris hotel bill is up 11 per cent—because the dollar is down 5½ per cent and the franc is up 5½—don't scream. You've been voting for inflation almost without a break ever since World War II ended—until finally the rest of the world won't take your paper money at par.

Remember our slogan: Governments don't go broke, but their people do.

LR Man Charged With Murder

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—North Little Rock Police have charged Jimmy Dale McCray, 29, of Little Rock with murder in the shooting death of Mrs. Rose Marie Romes, 28, of North Little Rock.

Mrs. Romes was shot June 16 at her home in Shorter College Gardens.

Police said ten days prior to her death she was wounded in the shoulder and back with a small-caliber pistol. A month prior to that she was charged with assault with intent to kill for stabbing McCray, police said. McCray declined to prosecute.

McCray was arrested last week in Los Angeles, but has waived extradition.

U.S., French Cold War Mellow Some

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Cold War West, the little power-politics contest between two long-time friends and allies, seems to have receded to a considerable degree.

President Nixon's Azores visit with President Georges Pompidou of France indicated a warmer and more fruitful relationship between Paris and Washington than was possible when Charles de Gaulle ruled.

For nearly 200 years, despite occasional tiffs, France and the United States considered one another fast friends. They were allies in two 20th century wars and that left a backlog of mutual esteem.

The Paris-Washington cold war began after De Gaulle became head of a Fifth Republic tailored to his liking, with strong authority in presidential hands. De Gaulle resented the United States as a competitor for authority and influence in European economics and politics. He regarded the U.S. dollar as an instrument of "economic colonization" in France and Western Europe.

A high point of his offensive to eject U.S. influence from Europe came in 1965 with an attack on the dollar. The French-

American cold war extended to conflict over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Vietnam, the Middle East, China and attitudes toward the Soviet Union.

Aware that France was no match for U.S. power, De Gaulle used economics as a political weapon, seeking to hit the Americans where it would hurt a lot—in the gold reserve basket.

France, like most of Western Europe newly prosperous because of the U.S. aid that rebuilt the war-shattered continent, had plenty of dollars from such sources as U.S. military expenses in France, tourists and U.S. business investment.

Using this wherewithal, De Gaulle decreed on New Year's Day, 1965, that France would convert into gold $300 million of its $1.3 billion hoard of dollars, in addition to the $500 million or so cashed regularly on an annual basis. It wasn't the amount so much as the obvious intent that hurt. The move threatened to undermine world confidence in the dollar, and President Lyndon B. Johnson took swift steps to reduce the amount of gold the United States had to hold, by law, to back the dollar.

The French-

superintendent, and Ira Friedman, 31, a guard, were believed to be uninjured. Friedman's wife, weeping as she entered the prison, arrived just before midnight.

Durand refused to say how the insurrection started. It came on the heels of the Thanksgiving takeover at Rahway State Prison in which seven hostages were taken. All were released and the trouble ended after state officials agreed to hear prisoner demands.

Associated Press newsman Carl Zeitz was summoned inside Yardville prison by officials Wednesday night. Zeitz, one of three newsmen who also entered Rahway State Prison during the riot there, was later joined by Bill Coombe, a newsman for United Press International.

Officials temporarily barred the newsmen from making detailed statements on the situation. But in a call to the AP early today, Zeitz said, "Don't be surprised if it lasts a few more hours. That's the way it looks to me."

Durand said the disturbance, which began about 1 p.m. Wednesday, was confined to the south wing of the 10 wing institution for youthful offenders. Property damage was minimal, he said.

Collision Kills Nashville Man

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Kenneth R. Morgan, 62, of Nashville was killed and two others injured Wednesday in a two-vehicle crash on Arkansas 24 less than two miles east of Nashville, police said.

State Police identified the injured as J. N. Harris, 56, of Nashville and James Lee, 30, of De Queen. Both were passengers in a car driven by Morgan.

Authorities said the accident occurred when Morgan turned in front of a pickup truck driven by Joseph D. Kesterson of Gillham.

Phantom Jet Crashes in Cambodia

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. Air Force fighter-bomber crashed within sight of Phnom Penh today while supporting Cambodian troops, military spokesmen said. A Cambodian helicopter rescued the two crewmen.

The F4 Phantom went down in flames four miles from the Cambodian capital after the two crewmen had parachuted. Spokesmen said they suffered no serious injuries.

The U.S. Command said the cause of the crash was not known yet. A spokesman, Capt. James D'Entremont, said the Phantom "was conducting air operations against enemy forces and their lines of supply and communications."

The Phantom was the 8,053rd U.S. aircraft reported lost in the Indochina war.

The battlefields in Cambodia were reported generally quiet.

Military spokesmen said a 6,000-man task force pushing through the Chup rubber plantation in eastern Cambodia had moved to the edge of the Mekong River but still had encountered no major resistance. The spokesmen said the Saigon troops were still on the eastern side of the river, about 35 miles from the Vietnamese border and 110 miles northwest of Saigon.

On the western side of the Mekong, anticipated North Vietnamese attacks on Cambodian forces cut off at Taing Kauk, 48 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, failed to materialize.

Viet Cong guerrillas in South Vietnam kept up attacks on the government's pacification program.

One group attacked a village office in Binh Dinh province, on the central coast, killed 10 men in the 30-man platoon defending it and wounded 11.

The allied commands' weekly casualty summaries said the totals last week included two Americans killed in action, 56 wounded and 38 dead of nonhostile causes; 243 South Vietnamese killed and 759 wounded, and 1,046 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

Forecast Says Fair and Mild

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After the turbulent weather the first of this week, the weather picture in Arkansas is going to be considerably calmer.

Following the high winds and tornadoes that raked the state Monday, the National Weather Service is predicting fair skies and mild temperatures for the remainder of this week.

The forecasts for Friday and Saturday are for sunny skies, with somewhat colder temperatures. It will be partly cloudy and warmer Sunday and Monday.

The highs around the state Wednesday ranged from 49 at Fayetteville to 67 at Pine Bluff.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 30; Harrison, 35; Jonesboro, 39; Pine Bluff, 40; Texarkana, 45; El Dorado, 39; Memphis, 42; Little Rock, 38 and Fort Smith, 34.

Probes Reports of Police Abuse

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A federal grand jury is continuing to wade through testimony in allegations of police abuse in Memphis.

More than 25 police officers have reportedly been subpoenaed to appear before the jury to date, as have the victims and some witnesses in a pair of alleged brutality cases.

The proceedings were secret. It was believed, however, that the jury is probing cases other than that of Elton Hayes, 17, who died while in police custody in October. Nine law enforcement officers were indicted by a county grand jury last week in that case.

East Pakistan Forces in Unconditional Surrender

After Surrender UN May Take Ceasefire Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—The surrender of Pakistani forces in East Pakistan is believed to improve chances that the U.N. Security Council finally will adopt a resolution calling for a cease-fire and troop withdrawal in the Indian-Pakistan war.

While the guns have been silenced in East Pakistan, battles still rage 1,000 miles across India on West Pakistan's frontier.

Five proposed resolutions were before the council, and a vote was expected before the end of the day.

Britain and France, the Soviet Union and Syria introduced resolutions Wednesday night, alongside Italian-Japanese and Polish proposals put in Monday and Tuesday.

When the council adjourned shortly after midnight Wednesday, none of the resolutions was believed to have much chance of adoption. But the latter word of the collapse of Pakistani resistance in Dacca was believed to lessen the prospects of the Russians vetoing the British-French resolution.

The resolution had two major provisions, calling for:

1. "An immediate and durable cease-fire ... until operations of disengagement leading to withdrawal have taken place."

2. "A comprehensive political settlement in accordance with the wishes of the people concerned as declared through their elected and acknowledged representatives."

Sir Colin Crowe of Britain explained that this latter provision referred to the representatives elected in the 1970 elections, meaning the Awami League members whose independence movement President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan's army has been trying to crush since last March.

It was in support of the Awami leaders, now organized as the government of Bangla Desh, or the Bengali Nation, that India went to war 12 days ago.

The Syrian and Soviet resolutions also included provisions for a cease-fire and some sort of action toward a political settlement.

China adopted a hands-off policy in private talks on the resolutions and indicated it would have nothing to do with any of them, but observers felt that the tone of the Chinese comments was sufficiently mild to indicate that they would not veto the British-French resolution, even though China's Pakistani allies were certain to oppose the call for a political settlement with the Bangla Desh movement.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Indian army triumphed on its eastern front today with the unconditional surrender of Pakistan's army in East Pakistan. Then the Indian government ordered its troops on the western front to stop fighting Friday night in a unilateral cease-fire.

The Indian Cabinet's decision to call a pause in the Kashmir area was made in the face of a declaration by Pakistan's president that he would carry on the war with India until the "occupied areas are taken back."

In announcing the Indian government's decision, an official spokesman said: "We have repeatedly declared that India has no territorial ambition."

"Now that Pakistani armed forces have surrendered in Bangla Desh, and Bangla Desh now is free, it is pointless in our view to continue the present conflict."

"Therefore, in order to stop bloodshed and unnecessary loss of life, we have ordered our armed forces to cease-fire everywhere on the western front, with effect from 2000 hours Indian standard time on Friday, Dec. 17, 1971."

"It is our earnest hope that there will be a corresponding immediate response from the government of Pakistan."

The time given is 8 p.m. local time, equivalent to 9:30 a.m. EST.

The eastern and western fronts are separated by about 1,000 miles, as are East and West Pakistan.

In East Pakistan, Indian soldiers marched victoriously into Dacca and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told her people: "Dacca is now the free capital of a free country."

It has been the provincial capital of the East wing of Pakistan.

Mrs. Gandhi declared refugees who had fled from East Pakistan to India were already returning to the area which India calls Bangla Desh, or Bengali nation.

The Pakistan president, Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, apparently refusing to write off East Pakistan, broadcast his intention to put out, two weeks hence, a new constitution that he insisted would apply to "both the wings" of Pakistan.

Before New Delhi's announcement of its intention to cease-fire in the west, an Indian spokesman had reported the biggest tank battle of the war as having taken place in that sector within the past 24 hours.

Announcement of the eastern-front victory brought cheers in the New Delhi Parliament.

The prime minister said the surrender was signed in Dacca, East Pakistan's capital, at 4:31 p.m.—6:01 a.m. EST—by Lt. Gen. A.A.K. Niazi, the commander of the estimated 80,000 Pakistani troops in the province.

The surrender was received, she said, by Lt. Gen. J.S. Aurora, the commander of India's eastern command, who flew to Dacca this afternoon.

As Mrs. Gandhi spoke in Parliament, Radio Pakistan announced that fighting had stopped in East Pakistan following an agreement between the local Indian and Pakistani commanders. Monitors said the broadcast, in the Urdu language, made no mention of surrender.

Ask for School Tax Increase

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—The boards of directors of two school districts in Jefferson County voted Wednesday night to ask for tax increases in the March 14 school elections.

The Pine Bluff School Board voted to ask for a 4-mill tax increase. The money would be used for repairs to existing buildings and the purchase of instructional material.

The Pine Bluff district currently has a 47-mill tax.

Cuba Attacks, Cripples Freighter on High Seas

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban ex-lease-owned freighter, crippled by fire from a Cuban gunboat, was under tow toward the Communist island today following a bloody attack on the high seas.

"The deck is covered with blood. I am dying ...," the freighter's captain, 55-year-old Jose Villa, said in a final and desperate radio message received here Wednesday.

"Tell the Coast Guard to come quickly," Villa said. "Tell them there are dead and wounded here."

The Johnny Express was the second ship owned by Bahama Lines of Miami—a firm operated by Cuban exiles—to be seized by Cuba in 10 days.

A Bahama Lines official said the Johnny Express had been taken in tow by Cuban patrol boats about 118 miles north of the island's east coast.

"It is on its way to Cuba by force," the spokesman said. "It is piracy and no one will do anything to help us."

ship was of Panamanian registry and not in U.S. waters when attacked so "our hands are tied."

The plight of the ship became known Wednesday when Bahama Lines received a distress signal. The Johnny Express, like the Lyla Express, had been returning from a run to Haiti. It was attacked about two miles off the coast of Little Inagua in the Bahamas.

Bahama Lines radio operator Francisco Blanco said Villa told him the Johnny Express was being pursued by a Cuban gunboat. As the office struggled to stay in contact with the ship, Villa later reported the Johnny Express was under fire and was being rammed by the gunboat.

Price Freeze Hits Doctors, Hospitals

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If your doctor's average fee is now $15, he can add another 37.5 cents, but not a penny more unless the government approves it.

A hospital with an average price of $50 a day can add $3, but no more unless the government says it's okay.

regulation of medical costs.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the commission hopes to halve the 12.9-percent rate of inflation in medical costs, while its goal for the economy as a whole is to keep price increases to a maximum 2.5-percent average.

"We were concerned with not reducing the quality of health care in the country," Grayson said. "That was very important to us."

The Price Commission handed the medical profession those guidelines Wednesday in what is believed to be government's first attempt to regulate medical costs across the board in the United States.

They limit the increases in the average of all an individual doctor's fees to 2.5 per cent a year, and the average of all an individual hospital's charges to 6 per cent a year.

The guidelines split the medical field into two divisions, institutional and non-institutional providers, and set up different regulations for them.

In the first category, which includes hospitals and other institutions, prices may be raised only to reflect allowable costs, offset by productivity increases.

While a doctor's charge for a house call might go up more than 3.5 per cent, the average of all his fees cannot, without special permission.

To justify increases even within those limits, medical professionals must have had increases in allowable costs, and in any case can't increase their profit margins. To go above those ceilings they must obtain special permission from the government.

But prices may not be raised to reflect higher labor costs of more than 5.5 per cent, the Pay Board ceiling for permissible wage increases.

Hospitals and other medical institutions may raise prices up to 2.5 per cent without notifying the government, but for raises higher than that, they must tell the Internal Revenue Service and Medicare officials.

The American Medical Association, which has consistently fought government regulation, had no immediate comment pending a review of the guidelines by AMA officials. An AMA spokesman, Dayton Moore, said his preliminary research turned up no past effort at such widespread government

Police Give to Colony

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The North Little Rock Police Department has presented a $2,300 check to the Arkansas Children's Colony to purchase Christmas gifts for colony residents.

The check was presented Wednesday by Sgt. Earl Bridges to Bill Hoggard, colony fiscal officer.

Hoggard called it the largest Christmas gift to the colony in his memory and probably the largest ever. He said it would be used to benefit colony residents not only at the Conway unit, but also at the units at Alexander and Arkadelphia.

Slayer of 5 Gets Death

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — John Linley Frazier has been ordered to die in the gas chamber by the jury that convicted him of killing five persons at a Santa Cruz hills mansion last year.

The 25-year-old former auto mechanic sat barefoot, impassively scanning the courtroom audience Wednesday as the verdict was read.

It took the eight-woman, four-man Superior Court jury just over five hours to decide on the death penalty over life imprisonment, which under state law were their only alternatives.

Frazier had been convicted of first-degree murder.

Judge Charles S. Franich ordered Frazier to appear Dec. 30 for formal sentencing.

Frazier pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the Oct. 19, 1970 shooting deaths of wealthy eye surgeon Dr. Victor Ohta, 45; his wife Virginia, 43; and their sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11; and Ohta's secretary, Dorothy Caldwell, 38.

The bodies were found in the family swimming pool by firemen responding to a fire at the mansion.

2 Americans Killed in War Last Week

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that two Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, equalling the lowest official weekly toll in nearly seven years.

U.S. deaths due to nonhostile causes totaled 38, the highest such toll since last February. Thirty of them were aboard a helicopter that disappeared in a storm Nov. 28 and had previously been listed as missing.

The U.S. Command also reported 56 Americans wounded in action last week, a sharp increase from the 14 reported two weeks ago.

The South Vietnamese military command reported 243 of its troops killed in action and 759 wounded, compared to 314 killed and 630 wounded the week before.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands claimed 1,046 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed last week, 237 more than the previous week.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,619 killed in action, 302,353 wounded, 10,003 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—136,968 killed in action, 296,542 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—786,619 killed.

Hopes Study Will Reduce Alcohol-Related Deaths

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Alcohol Safety Action Program in Pulaski County is nearing the end of a half year of planning and research, gaining a tank of information aimed at accelerating a substantial reduction in alcohol-related traffic fatalities.

The ASAP project is designed to meet head-on the destruction caused by problem drinker-drivers, who, according to statistics, are involved in about 20,000 traffic deaths a year.

Great success is predicted for the program by Ralph D. Scott, former director of the Arkansas State Police, who is director of the Law Enforcement Division of the ASAP project.

Some of the basic objectives of ASAP are identification of problem drinkers, better enforcement procedures, court cooperation and alternative treatments.

Success of the federally funded project, Scott said during an interview, hinges on cooperation of the judges.

"It can't work unless the judges are in favor and support it," Scott said. He said judges in the county had indicated "full and complete support and I'm quite sure the program never would have been approved except for the cooperative attitude of the judges."

Scott said judges were the secret to success because they can do whatever they want with a drunk driver. He said judges will have more alternatives available in such cases. Rather than just imposing a fine, a jail sentence or revoking the driver's license, the judge will be able to place the person in care of a probation officer or assign him to attend formation seminars.

Scott predicted the program would be so successful in reducing traffic fatalities that it will be expanded to all municipalities of any size.

One reason for his optimism is that 23 officers will be hired to do nothing but detect drunk drivers and arrest them. These will be assigned to Little Rock, North Little Rock and Jacksonville-Sherwood. "This can't help but reduce fatalities," Scott said.

The half year of planning for ASAP began July 1 and the action phase will begin Jan. 2 and continue for three years. R. E. Brians, former Little Rock police chief, is director of the program, which is administered under the state Department of Public Safety. The Pulaski project is one of 35 throughout the nation and is the only one of the 35 in which the state is the prime contractor.

"We feel our arrangement is superior to any other project because of the close coordination involving the expenditure of federal funds that might not otherwise have been possible," Scott said. An example, he said, is that the State Police is participating in the project by virtue of a grant to the ASP in which it matches the funds through a work arrangement. During the next three years, the project is to receive nearly $2 million in federal money.

Thus far, the ASAP has conducted a roadside study and a household survey to see how much knowledge people had in laws regarding drinking and driving, if they were willing to cooperate in clearing the highway of problem drinker-drivers, and other personal information. Scott said the information will help them to know if the project is getting its point across to the public and how much progress has been made in general a year from now when other studies are conducted.

During the roadside study last month, Scott said about 1,200 persons were stopped at 30 different locations between 8 p.m. and 3 a.m. "No names were taken," Scott said. "This was purely a research project. The ones we found drunk we took home and drove their cars home. No one was arrested."

One of the first basic objectives is establishment of a good records system so that convictions for alcohol-involved, non-traffic arrests appear on the driving record, together with records of treatment by public social and health agencies. This is designed to help identify the problem drinker-driver before he gets on the road.

Problem drinker-drivers are defined as those who have more than one arrest for offenses involving alcohol—including non-highway arrests—who are known to various health and social agencies and who often have a history of troubled relationships with their employers, families and creditors.

The records system will be used as a presentence report for the judge and the prosecuting attorney. "The judges are quite excited about it," Scott said. "It's hard for them to pass sentence without a presentence report of knowledge (about the person convicted)."

The records may suggest to the judge that the person is a problem drinker-driver and the judge may suspend a portion of the sentence and suggest that he undergo medical and psychological evaluation, Scott explained.

Training and education also will be available for such persons at "attitude formation seminars," which will be conducted at three levels by the University of Arkansas' Graduate School of Social Work in Little Rock.

The judge also may put the offender on probation in care of one of three probation officers who will be available under the program in Little Rock, North Little Rock and Jacksonville-Sherwood.

Also included in the project will be distribution throughout the community of "alcoholators." From these, a person can figure out how much it will take for him to drink to be legally drunk.

The standard for legal evidence of drunkenness is a blood alcohol concentration of .10 per cent. The number of one ounce drinks of 86 proof whisky for a 160-pound man within two hours of eating to reach that level is between six and seven. Fewer drinks are required to reach the level if taken on an empty stomach.

The number of drinks required to reach a state of irresponsible drinking particularly when driving is seven, and the number that is symptomatic of a drinking problem is 10, according to federal statistics.

Congress Gets Holiday Urge

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Christmas is less than 10 days away, members of Congress get a strong urge to be somewhere else.

A good many of them already are, and those who stayed behind are anxious to get going.

In the Senate, that can make two hours of debate — with the threat of more to come — look like a filibuster.

That is all part of the situation the Senate faced today with barely enough members on hand to do business.

Without 51 members, the Senate can't do anything except adjourn itself, if any member invokes the rule requiring that a quorum be on hand.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Wednesday attendance was "in the 50s" and declining, as members left Washington to keep engagements they had made on the assumption Congress would have adjourned by now.

So everyone was careful during the day not to do anything that would force a real check of attendance, such as asking for a roll-call vote.

The final version of the $70.5-billion defense appropriations bill was passed by inaudible voice vote, with a handful of senators on the floor.

The House wasn't exactly overpopulated with members either, although it did manage roll-call votes Wednesday.

BABOON SHINES

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Subscribers at Kloof Nek Forest were left to wonder about the new bug in the telephone system when bells rang for no reason and some heard only barks, growls and sucking sounds.

A baboon had got into the unattended exchange. It pulled instructions from the wall, pressed every button on the switchboard, spilt milk on the floor and finally ate the only pen of operator Michael Anhauser who had left for a few minutes. "I don't know what to put in my report," Anhauser said.

WCS Christmas Party

A Christmas party for Circle 5, WCS, was held Tuesday, December 14 in the home of Mrs. Wesley Huddleston with Mesdames Calvin Smith, W.C. Bruner, Jr., H.I. Townsend, Birkett Wyllie and Robert Parham, co-hostesses. Traditional signs of the season were seen from the Noel on either side of the entrance to the brightly lighted tree inside.

"The Man Who Owned the Stable" was the inspiring story which Mrs. Robert Parham brought to the group. Business matters were kept to a minimum, but the new Circle Chairman, Mrs. Calvin Smith, announced that a meeting January 10 would be in the home of Mrs. Herman Smith with Mrs. Wesley Huddleston in charge of the program.

An exchange of gifts was followed by the serving of a vast array of Christmas sandwiches and cookies with red punch to 17.

Dinner Party for Choir

Mrs. R.L. Gosnell had a dinner party for members of the Presbyterian Church choir at the Heritage House on Monday, December 13. "Getting to Know You" was the theme of the evening with Mrs. Gosnell and Mrs. Tom Hays, Jr. interviewing the new members of the choir in a clever manner.

Dinner was served to 27 at tables decorated with red candles and holly and Santa Claus candles at each place. Dr. J.W. Branch, pianist, provided music and Marynell Branch added special talent to what was described as a "fun party."

Yule Party At Hospital

The Housekeeping Department of Hempstead County Memorial Hospital held its annual Christmas party in the lobby of the Memorial Nursing Home on December 10 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Hobart Shirley led in prayer and gave an inspiring Christmas devotion. Judge Finis Odum led the group in singing Christmas carols. After Santa's arrival from the North Pole into summer-like weather, he made a quick change into Hot Pants and passed out many lovely wrapped gifts from a beautifully decorated tree.

The group was invited into the attractively decorated dining room for refreshments suitable for the holidays. Guests were Mr. Shirley, Judge Odum, and the Board of Governors, Larry Patterson, Dr. Herbert Rogers and Eldredge Formby. About 45 enjoyed the occasion.

Diabetic Club

The Diabetic Club met in the home of Mrs. Robert McDowell on Monday, December 13. The home was beautifully decorated for Christmas.

Mrs. McDowell, President, opened the meeting and cor-ducted a short business session during which the club decided to start a fund to help diabetics.

Mrs. Guy Lewis led the prayer, and Mrs. Earl Ross gave the devotional. She read from the second chapter of Luke, verses 1-20, using verses ten and eleven as the background for her thoughts on "God's Gift to All People". After the devotional, Mrs. McDowell sang "Away in a Manger", followed by the group singing "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night".

Gifts were exchanged from beneath a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. Delicious diabetic refreshments of cookies, fruit whip and coffee were served to all in attendance.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. J.E. Hollis, 706 Park Drive, on January 10.

Rose Garden Club Party

The Rose Garden Club had its Christmas meeting Friday, December 10 in the home of Mrs. Ned Purtle with Mrs. Jack Arnette, co-hostess. Ten members enjoyed a delightful story as told by Mrs. Steve Atkins.

The mantle of the home was decorated with red candles and holly, and a small tree on the hearth was surrounded by gifts. After the presents were opened, fresh coconut cake was served with coffee.

Special Yule Services at First Assembly

For the past several weeks, the First Assembly has been making preparation for Sunday, December 19. This day will be filled with activities of interest to all. The highlight of the morning service will be a program presented by the children of the Sunday School classes during the first portion of the eleven o'clock worship service.

For the evening service at 7 p.m., a special program is planned. The Christ's Ambassadors Department, under the direction of Mrs. Jackie Roberts, will present a full length play entitled "The Rose of Sharon". In the play Mrs. Moranno, owner of a small florist shop, learns the truth of Jesus' words, "In as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me". The message of this program deals with the real purpose and meaning of Christmas.

The public is invited.

Two Want to be Official Santa

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — All Santas are created equal, according to the House Policy Committee.

The committee had been presented with two rival resolutions, each wanting to name an official state Santa Claus. The politicians dodged the issue by congratulating both contenders and declining to establish any hierarchy.

Vying for top Santa were Leo Konwinski of Iron River and Kenneth Burden of Marshall. Both have been playing Santa Claus for more than 20 years. Konwinski has even grown his own beard.

"We're thanking the two gentlemen for their work in the two communities on the Santa Claus bit," said Committee Chairman James E. O'Neil Jr. "But it would be a tragic mistake to designate one official Santa."

President Sends Christmas Cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — A painting which shows George Washington inspecting construction of the White House in 1798 is the cover for the presidential Christmas card this year.

The painting is the work of Pennsylvania artist N. C. Wyeth.

Inside, the red, white and blue cards mailed from the White House on Monday bear the engraved inscription: from our family for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. The President and Mrs. Nixon.

Grant to Create Jobs in Lonoke

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said Tuesday the Economic Development Administration has approved a $220,000 grant to Lonoke County to help create construction jobs for the unemployed and underemployed.

Pearls are winners for the holiday fashion look. They're part of the great elegance plot. Fluted gold ball drops a cascading bedazzlement of seed pearl tassels (left). A gold-toned chain is interwoven with strands of seed pearls to provide a delicate contrast. Baroque pearls are in, too. Flat baroque patterns (right) swing free and are interspersed with spraying links of tailored antique gold. Everything's suspended from an antique gold wheel chain so you get plenty of shimmering movement.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel—or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Christmas Dilemma

Dear Rap: We had one of those super big weddings last June. I sent personal thank-you notes to about 300 people. We truly appreciated all those lovely gifts, but here's my question: I read in some etiquette book that the bride and groom should send Christmas cards the first year of marriage to everyone who gave them wedding presents. It seemed very thoughtful and nice, and I tried—but I struck out with morning sickness. Writing makes me nauseous—even more than usual.

Is it really necessary to remember (with holiday cards) so many people who are more our parents' friends than ours? We're awfully grateful and we don't want to slight them, but—HOW CAN I?

Dear HCI:

I know a couple who followed this etiquette edict about Christmas wishes to wedding gifters, and not only ended up with writers' cramp, but the following year discovered they were on about 300 card lists. When you start something, it often boomerangs.

So don't start it! —HELEN

Dear How:

Christmas cards are for your own special friends, and try to hold the list down! It grows fast enough without searching in etiquette books for extra ways of increasing it.—SUE NOTE FROM BOTH OF US: We think Christmas cards are vastly overdue. Why send greetings to someone you see almost every day and to whom you can wish a "Merry Christmas" in person? Why "remember" near-strangers, just because you somehow got on their lists?

A card, we believe, should mean, "I'm thinking of you and I care." So it needs a personal note (very short if you wish) or at least your written signature, not just a printed name with nothing added to show it's from a friend.

Anyone for agreement?—HELEN AND SUE

Dear Sue and Helen:

Here's a suggestion for the person whose friends have everything. Give them Christmas presents of volunteer work. Find out what the friend's favorite charity is, and then offer to work free for that charity for X number of hours—as a gift to him or her. Get up some sort of certificate that shows your promise in writing.

If you can't spare the time, you can always donate to "Care" or UNICEF or other worthy causes in your friend's name.

It's got to be such a hassle, trying to find the right gift. Of

Billy Graham to Represent Nixon

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Fresh from a checkup at the Mayo Clinic, evangelist Billy Graham says he is looking forward to representing President Nixon next month at presidential inauguration ceremonies for Liberia's Dr. William Tolbert.

Graham and Tolbert, a Baptist minister and a former head of the Baptist World Alliance, have long been friends.

Graham said Monday the undisclosed illness which brought him to Mayo last week will not require surgery and has "nothing to do with cancer."

The clinic visit forced the evangelist to cancel a planned trip to Taiwan, Korea and Japan.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Skin Can Absorb Some Medications

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have always looked askance at cosmetics containing hormones, as I thought applying them outside couldn't make any difference.

I have been using a prescribed hormone vaginal cream which really makes a difference. Now I am wondering if the face, too, can absorb hormones. I am in my late 50s, so naturally would welcome any help. I am not, however, eager to enrich a cosmetic manufacturer for psychological help.

Dear Reader—Yes, many of the things applied to the skin are actually absorbed by the body. A good example is a nitroglycerin ointment, when rubbed over the chest it will relieve angina pain.

Now that doesn't mean that you will get what you hope for from hormone creams for your face. It depends entirely on what you want. If it is wrinkles you wish to get rid of you will most likely be disappointed.

The cream that serves as a base for the hormones usually acts as a moisturizer—that is it helps prevent drying or loss of water from the deeper layers of the skin. This is sometimes helpful, usually in skin showing aging. This is not due to the hormones, however. If a person used a cream with enough hormone to cause a significant effect on the skin it could also cause problems by its total effect on the body.

The hormone cream you have been using actually relieves the shortage of female hormone and is useful for that purpose. This however is quite different than the usual aging of the skin which you are probably concerned about.

Dear Dr. Lamb—It is necessary for my children to take 50,000 units of vitamin A because of a severe lack of it in their systems since they were very young. However, during the winter months I have given them vitamin C to ward off colds. Now someone tells me that I am defeating my purpose because the one vitamin counteracts and voids the other. Is this true? If so, how can we benefit in both areas without nullifying one or the other.

Dear Reader—That is the least of your worries. There is absolutely no nullifying effect of either vitamin on the other. I must point out, however, that excess amounts of vitamin A can be harmful. Many doctors feel that continued doses in excess of 25,000 units daily are ill-advised and may cause vitamin A toxicity. The American Medical Assn.'s 1971 Drug Evaluation also states that there is no evidence of any additional benefits from doses in excess of 25,000 units daily. Other than short term treatment for vitamin A deficiency, the regular dose is 5,000 units daily or less.

LBJ Birthplace Is Decorated

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — Eighteen children from a Head-Start school have decorated a Christmas tree with paper cutouts and popcorn chains at former President Lyndon B. Johnson's birthplace.

The decorations are the same type used when the Johnson family moved to this central Texas community in the early 1900s.

The three was decorated for a Christmas celebration next Sunday at the white frame house where Johnson was born in 1908.

Nicolas Veloz Jr., acting superintendent of the LBJ birthplace, said National Park Service employees will pass out cookies to visitors Sunday at the birthplace and Johnson's boyhood home in Johnson City, 20 miles east of here.

Johnson, former Gov. and Mrs. Carl Sanders of Georgia and others watched as the children decorated the native cedar tree.

Injuries Tough on Both Pro Players and Wives

(EDITORS NOTE: This is a year of innumerable injuries in professional football. It's tough on players to be out. It's tough on wives who watch their husbands week after week, knowing the next play could put them in the hospital. Here is the story of two veteran football wives who may be typical—their husbands are neither sub nor super stars—and how they have adjusted.)

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Betty Manders doesn't fret that her husband might get hurt. Trudy Philbin does. "You just wait until it happens," said the wife of Dallas Cowboys-center Dave Manders. "At first you don't worry because you're not used to anything happening," said Mrs. Philbin, whose husband Gerry is a defensive end for the New York Jets. "But the more things that happen, the more you worry."

Gerry and Dave both are 6-foot-2, 245 pounds and 30 years old. Philbin joined the Jets in 1964 as a third-round draft choice out of the University of Buffalo. Manders went to the Cowboys the same year as a free agent, two years after graduation from Michigan State.

Both have been on Super Bowl teams, have been spared the trauma of being traded and have suffered their share of injuries.

Their wives like those of other players, sit in stadium stands or in front of the television set, watching their mates get hit week after week and waiting for them to get up.

The women offer ice packs and sympathy when their hulking husbands come off the practice fields or home from games with minor ailments. When they suffer serious injuries, the wives travel daily to nearby hospitals and accept other wives' offerings of baby-sitting, food and goodwill and return the favor when mishaps strike their homes.

"You do as much for them as you can without hurting their vanity," said Mrs. Philbin.

Trudy is a 28-year-old strawberry blonde from Wichita, Kan., who as a teen-ager liked "anything dangerous except skiing. I don't like the cold."

Now a resident of suburban Huntington, N.Y., and the mother of John, 4, and Douglas, seven months, Trudy spent her high school days getting school records in high jump and winning trophies in drag racing. She attended Wichita State for one year, then became a stewardess. It was while flying the Atlanta-New York route for Eastern Airlines that she met Gerry, who already had one shoulder operation and a couple years' pro experience.

Betty and Dave were childhood sweethearts in the ski country of Kinsford, Mich., on the Upper Peninsula just two blocks from Wisconsin. Tall, blonde and 32, Mrs. Manders also is a graduate of MSU.

When the Manders were married, pro football wasn't in their plans, but, as she says, "Dave found out that watching it and playing it weren't the same." Now they live in North Dallas with Mark, 9, Mike, 6, and Cassie, 2.

The year after the Philbins were married, Gerry underwent routine surgery to remove spurs from his leg bone. It wasn't until 1970 that injuries made major inroads again. It was Gerry's other shoulder. The rule of thumb in three dislocations—then surgery.

The third time came when the Jets were in Houston and Trudy was watching the game on television with Betsy Baker, wife of linebacker Ralph Baker.

"I saw the doctor put his foot on Gerry's chest and yank the shoulder back into place," said Trudy, wincing. "I think I could feel the pain as much as he did. They shouldn't show things like that on television."

Trudy missed the next mishap even though she was sitting in the New England Patriots' stands. It was in October, 1971.

"After the game we were joking around and I asked Gerry if he was going to walk me to my car," she recalled. "He said he had something to tell me: 'I have to go back with the team. . . have a problem with my knee.'"

Gerry tore ligaments and tendons and was hospitalized for three days. He still wears a knee brace when he plays.

Mrs. Manders, who has watched her husband nearly twice as long as Trudy has watched Gerry, says she knows Dave's every pain.

Ohio University Is Clobbering Big 10

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio University's Bobcats have not yet bobbed up in the nation's Top 10 basketball teams this season, but if they continue beating Big Ten teams, they might join the elite.

The unheralded Bobcats posted their second straight victory over a Big Ten Conference club, upsetting 12th-ranked Indiana 79-70 Wednesday night. Four days earlier, they toppled Ohio State, ranked fourth at the time, 77-69.

Hoosiers' Coach Bob Knight said, "Ohio University just came to play harder than we did, and that was it in a nutshell. They played well at both ends. They grabbed loose balls. We didn't underestimate them. We knew they were strong."

The Bobcats, 3-1, showed their strength quickly, grabbing a 5-2 lead in the first three minutes and never relinquishing it. Tom Ricciardi's 18 points paced Ohio University's balanced attack. Tom Corde added 17 points and Bob Howell scored 15.

Indiana's Joby Wright led all

"The bruises and the blood clots worry me more than the broken bones," she said. "A break will be set and will mend and he won't play until it does, but there are so many unknowns with a deep bruise or a clot."

Manders, unlike Philbin, hasn't suffered a serious football injury since 1967.

"That was the year he tore up his knee in an exhibition game in San Francisco," Mrs. Manders recalled between answering the telephone and wiping candy smears off Cassie's face. "He tore ligaments, cartilages, the whole knee. He was hospitalized for 17 days and sat out the rest of the year."

"You hate to see your husband discouraged, down. You hate to see anybody out of work, and his work is playing football."

Trudy Philbin agrees—even if it means playing in a shoulder harness or in a knee brace.

"I'd rather have him play in that than not to play at all," she said.

But in pro football, eight years is a long career and both families know that the day soon will come when the game will no longer be a part of their lives. And they plan for that day. Both husbands have outside sources of income and have made investments.

Although the Manders have never been spendthrifts, Betty said she thought Dave's football injury brought home the fact the paychecks wouldn't always be there.

"The injury did us good. You think 'Hey, wait a minute, it could all end tomorrow.'"

Houston Has Figured a Way to Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Rockets have figured out a way to win: staggered scoring.

Stu Lantz fired in 26 of his game-high 30 points in the first half Wednesday night, as the Rockets built up a 62-53 lead by intermission.

Elvin Hayes scored 21 of his 28 points in the second half, but the Hawks rallied from 18 points down with 9:37 left to play to tie the score 106-106 at the end of regulation play.

But the most important points of all came in overtime from Cliff Meely, Houston's rookie forward from Colorado, who hit a baseline jump shot with just four seconds left to give Houston a 117-115 triumph over the stubborn Hawks.

In other NBA action, Boston beat Seattle 112-100, Phoenix whipped Cincinnati 128-108 and Milwaukee topped Buffalo 122-108.

Houston held a seemingly insurmountable 98-80 lead with 9:37 to go, but Atlanta came roaring back. The lead changed hands four times in overtime before Meely settled matters.

Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 34 points and Pete Maravich added 32, his highest output of the season.

Four Celtics scored 20 points or more as Boston topped the Sonics. Backcourtnmen Don Chaney and Jo Jo White netted 22 each, center Dave Cowens had 21—plus 14 rebounds—and forward John Havlicek chipped in with 20.

Dick Van Arsdale hit on 11 of 17 field goal attempts and nine of 11 free throws for 31 points to pace Phoenix. John Mengelt, playing in place of the injured Nate Archibald, led Cincinnati with 31.

Kareem Jabbar scored 35 points as Milwaukee registered its seventh consecutive victory. John Block added 24 and Oscar Robertson 20 for the Bucks.

Kentucky State Tops Small College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky State, led by Little All-American forward Travis Grant and bidding for a third consecutive National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship, held the top spot in The Associated Press' first weekly College Division basketball poll for the 1971-72 season.

The Thorobreds, 2-0 through Saturday night this season, received six first place votes and a total of 275 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters to head the list.

Evansville, the defending NCAA College Division champions, took second place in the initial poll with five first place votes and 233 points. The Purple Aces are 3-0 this season through Saturday night.

Right behind Evansville, in third place, is Wisconsin-Eau Claire, 6-0. Eau Claire, 51-4 over the past two years, got three first place votes and 226 points.

Cheyney State nosed out Louisiana Tech for fourth place on the list. Each received one first place vote, but Cheyney State, 5-0, accumulated 150 points to 147 for Louisiana Tech, 4-0.

No school other than the top five received first place votes.

Rounding out the Top Ten were No. 6 Tennessee State, 30, 120 points; No. 7 Assumption, 3-1, 95; No. 8 Akron, 4-0, 72; No. 9 Eastern Illinois, 6-0, 69, and No. 10 Stephen F. Austin, 4-1, 63.

The Top Ten at the close of last season had LSU-New Or-73-70; Mississippi handed Southern Mississippi its 13th straight loss over two seasons 107-92; Murray State nipped Bradley 75-74 on Les Taylor's field goal with three seconds left; Scott Mitchell's tie-breaking field goal with eight seconds remaining helped Yale top Brown 73-70, and sophomore Glen Price's 20 points paced St. Bonaventure to an 80-66 victory over DePaul.

Wills Money to Football Team

MIAMI (AP)—A middle-aged widow who likes football has set aside $1 million in her will to help the football program at the University of Miami, her attorney said Wednesday.

"My client has always loved football," said Starr Horton. "And she's become a big University of Miami fan since becoming a permanent resident here."

Horton said the woman asked to remain unidentified. "The lady doesn't want any publicity," he said.

The money will go into the school's general endowment fund, Horton said, with annual earnings of about $55,000 going each year to provide football scholarships.

Reppond Out, Ettinger to Take Over

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

—Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday that Jack Ettinger would probably replace wide receiver Mike Reppond Monday night when the Razorbacks face Tennessee in the Liberty Bowl.

Reppond has not recovered sufficiently from a calcium deposit in his right thigh to be permitted to see action, Broyles said.

The Razorbacks worked for 90 minutes Wednesday on the AstroTurf and Broyles termed the workout a good one, but he said drier weather is needed so the team can work on real grass prior to the game, which will not be played on a synthetic surface.

Broyles remarked that full-back Russ Garber, sidelined most of the season because of a toe injury, "looked real good" Wednesday.

"Garber's really got his quickness back and we expect to use him with (Jon) Richardson and (Dicky) Morton in the Wishbone," Broyles said.

Blue to Get Raise

OAKLAND (AP) — Pitcher

Vida Blue, the American League Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards winner, will get a "substantial raise" over last year's $14,750 rookie contract, says Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley.

"And I'm not talking about peanuts," Finley said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

Finley said he is awaiting word from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on contract guidelines.

Blue himself is on the way to Vietnam with Bob Hope and other entertainers, but he has been quoted as saying "I'm going to make a whole lot more money next year."

Asked about his reaction should Vida come up with a figure of around $100,000, Finley replied:

"I don't know. I've never had anyone ask me for $100,000."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, has sent a letter to players bringing up the matter of increases for athletes and entertainers.

Miller pointed out that it may be some time before the federal pay board rules on sports.

Specific individuals are not barred from salary boosts above the 3 1/2 per cent guideline set by the board, but the unit in which they work must not exceed that. The question of what is a unit has not been defined.

Gilmore Lives Up to His Billing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Artis Gilmore will be to Kentucky what Bill Russell was to Boston," declared Bill Sharman before the start of the season, high praise indeed for the tall rookie from Jacksonville.

But so far, at least, Gilmore has more than lived up to his advance billing.

The 7-foot-2 first-year center, who leads the ABA in rebounding, moved on the offensive Wednesday night, pouring in 34 points as the Kentucky Colonels plastered the Carolina Cougars 137-93. The 44-point spread was the largest victory margin in Colonels history.

In other ABA games, the Floridians whipped Virginia 119-105, the New York Nets topped Memphis 109-100 and Indiana defeated Dallas 124-110.

Sharman, who teamed with Russell on many of the Celtics championship teams and now coaches the NBA Los Angeles Lakers, was basing his statement on Gilmore's rebounding and defensive ability, his strong points in college when he led Jacksonville from obscurity to the NCAA finals.

Gilmore has done the job off the boards, leading the league with about 20 rebounds per game. And, like Russell, he's been devastating on defense, blocking shots and preventing opponents from driving the lane.

Gilmore's offensive outburst helped Kentucky jump to an 18-6 lead, a 63-45 halftime spread and a 95-67 margin after three quarters. The Colonels, leaders in the ABA East Division, also got 24 points from 6-8 Dan Issel, last year's center who moved to forward with the coming of Gilmore.

Ron Franz, who missed the last four games due to a liver ailment, came off the bench and scored 10 of his 14 points in the fourth quarter as the Floridians rallied to overtake Virginia. Charlie Scott led the Squires with 23 points and Ira Harge paced the Floridians with 19.

Guard Bill Melchionni scored 25 points and backcourt running mate John Roche added 22 as the Nets defeated the Pros. Bonus rookie Johnny Neumann, who passed up his final two years at Mississippi to turn Pro, made his first start for Memphis and led the club with 21 points.

The Indiana Pacers got six players in double figures as they topped Dallas, with Roger Brown scoring 25 and Mel Daniels 23.

high schools, Colonia, played two good American teams to a standstill.

And this week, with the coming of Saturday's Sun Bowl between Iowa State and Louisiana State, football is at a fever pitch in Juarez.

"Thees futbol, ees beeg thing, eh?" said Luis, a taxicab driver whose amazing reflexes have kept him alive in the daily jungle of traffic in Juarez.

"I go some day and see it," he said with a smile. "I go with friends."

This year about 2,000 Juarez residents and their friends will see the Iowa State-LSU clash, if pre-game ticket sales are any indications.

This is a far cry from the 20,000 or more fans who jam themselves into one of the Juarez arenas to watch a bullfight. But it is a start.

In a way, it was the Sun Bowl that has kept American football alive in Mexico.

Back in 1945, the Sun Bowl hosted what proved to be the first international bowl game when the University of Mexico played Southwestern University.

Mexico lost 35-0 and has never been back.

The University of Mexico still has a football team, but it confines its schedule to small colleges and freshman teams.

It would be murder if it had to play either LSU or Iowa State.

But then, several American teams have been murdered by the Bengals and Cyclones this year.

Eyes Bout with Deposed Champ

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) —

World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Vicente Rondon, unmarked while scoring an eighth round technical knockout over challenger Doyle Baird here Wednesday night, is eyeing a bout with deposed champion Bob Foster.

Rondon peppered a helpless Baird with left and right combinations in the final round and referee John Christopher called the Venezuelan the winner as soon as Baird fell flat on his back for the third knockdown.

It was Rondon's fourth successful title defense in 10 months and he was visited in the locker room by Agustin Barres, a San Juan, Puerto Rico, fight promoter who wants Rondon to meet Foster there Feb. 18.

Tennessee QB Wants Chance at Pro Team

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State University, a black man, wants to become a quarterback on a professional football team, and he's optimistic.

"I think I'll get a shot," he says. "I definitely think I'm good enough."

Gilliam, a senior, has directed predominantly black TSU to a 20-1 record the past two seasons, including two victories in the Grantland Rice Bowl.

And quarterback, he says, is the only position for him.

"I've been taught to play quarterback. I haven't been tutored for anything else. I am not equipped to play anything else."

"All I'm asking is that the pro people give me a chance and be prepared to tutor me for two or three years like they do every white quarterback up there."

When he gets to the pros, he says, he believes he will be treated fairly.

"I don't expect out and out prejudice. I think they'll say, 'Let's give him a chance.' I think I'm really good enough, I'll make it."

He expects to go low in the pro draft because he's heard reports that he's too small at 182 pounds.

Blue himself is on the way to Vietnam with Bob Hope and other entertainers, but he has been quoted as saying "I'm going to make a whole lot more money next year."

Asked about his reaction should Vida come up with a figure of around $100,000, Finley replied:

SCA Coach Raymond Bright Out

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—"It's taken them 14 years to find out that I'm not a good coach," said Raymond Bright when he was fired Wednesday as head football coach at State College of Arkansas.

Bright said he interpreted his dismissal to mean the SCA administration felt that he was the cause of the athletic program's recent lack of success.

"The only thing I can make of it is that they believe they've eliminated the cause," Bright said.

The SCA Board of Trustees voted 4-1 Wednesday to accept the recommendation of SCA President Silas Snow that Bright's contract not be renewed after June 30.

Bright, 48, said he was unsure what he would do.

"What does a fellow of my age who has been coaching 23 years do?" Bright said. "I've got five kids. I've got to do something."

Bright said he was unsure what his assistant coaches would do, but he said he hoped they would remain at SCA.

"I don't feel like our failure to win the last two years has anything to do with my coaching staff," he said.

He said it appeared the Bears would have a "pretty good football team" this year until some key players were injured.

Former World Middleweight Champion Dies

ENUGU, Nigeria (AP) —

Dick Tiger, the former world boxing champion who lost most of his ring earnings during the civil war between his native Biafra and Nigeria, is dead of a liver ailment at age 42.

Tiger beat Gene Fullmer to become world middleweight champion at age 33, lost the title to Joey Giardello, then won it back two years later. He lost the middleweight crown to Emile Griffith in 1966, but eight months later won the light heavyweight championship from Jose Torres.

He was named Fighter of the Year by Ring Magazine in 1962 and 1966, received the Boxing Writers Association's Edward J. Neil Memorial Award as Fighter of the Year in 1963 and 1966, and was made a member of the Order of the British Empire in 1963.

Born as Richard Ihetu in Ainaigbo, Orlu, in the heart of Biafra, he was schooled by Anglican missionaries and spoke with a cultured British accent. When he became world champion he was extremely popular and relatively wealthy in his homeland, then a united Nigeria.

But with the outbreak of fighting between secessionist Biafra and Nigeria, Tiger lost most of the wealth he had accumulated in his homeland. He retired from boxing last July to devote his time to physical training programs for soldiers in Biafra's army.

Tiger, whose death Monday was confirmed Wednesday, won 64 of 81 bouts after turning professional at age 23. He learned boxing from British military officers in Aia, near the Nigerian capital of Lagos.

Bulls' Sloan Makes Determination Pay

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It doesn't really bother the Chicago Bulls' Jerry Sloan when he picks up another floor burn in a skidding dive for a loose ball, when a burly forward intent on a drive knocks him sprawling, when he collects a new bruise battling for a rebound, when he gets so tired he can't see where he's going.

It doesn't bother him because he remembers growing up on a scrub farm near McLeansboro, Ill., his father dying when he was four, a one-room schoolhouse he attended for eight years, a childhood that seems now to have been a struggle for survival.

"When I first started playing basketball it was because McLeansboro was a small town and there wasn't much else to do," Sloan said as he relaxed before a game here recently. "It wasn't until I was drafted by the pros that it occurred to me that it might be more worth-while than that. Now I realize how lucky I am to be getting paid for doing something I enjoy and it's occurred to me that without basketball I would never have gone to college and would probably still be back there on the farm."

Instead of being back on the farm, Sloan is a mainstay of the Bulls, who had the NBA's third best record last season and have been maintaining that pace this year while laboring in the shadow of the Milwaukee Bucks in the league's Midwest Division.

Drafted by the Baltimore Bullets out of Evansville (Ind.) College, where he was a small college All-American in 1964-65, Sloan was picked from the expansion pool by the Bulls when they entered the NBA in 1966. Since then, as a 6-5, 200-pounder playing both guard and forward, he has been in two All-Star games and developed a reputation as one of the NBA's toughest defensive players.

Defensive first team once and their second team twice in the last three years.

And though he has been scoring better this season than he ever has before—averaging around 18 points a game—he still thinks of himself as primarily a defensive player.

"I never worry about my shooting," he said, in a calm southern Illinois drawl. "I went 6-for-21 from the floor in a game the other day and it didn't bother me. All I'm concerned about is getting possession of the ball. If I draw a couple of offensive fouls, recover a couple of loose balls, hit the boards nine or 10 times and do the job on defense, I'm happy."

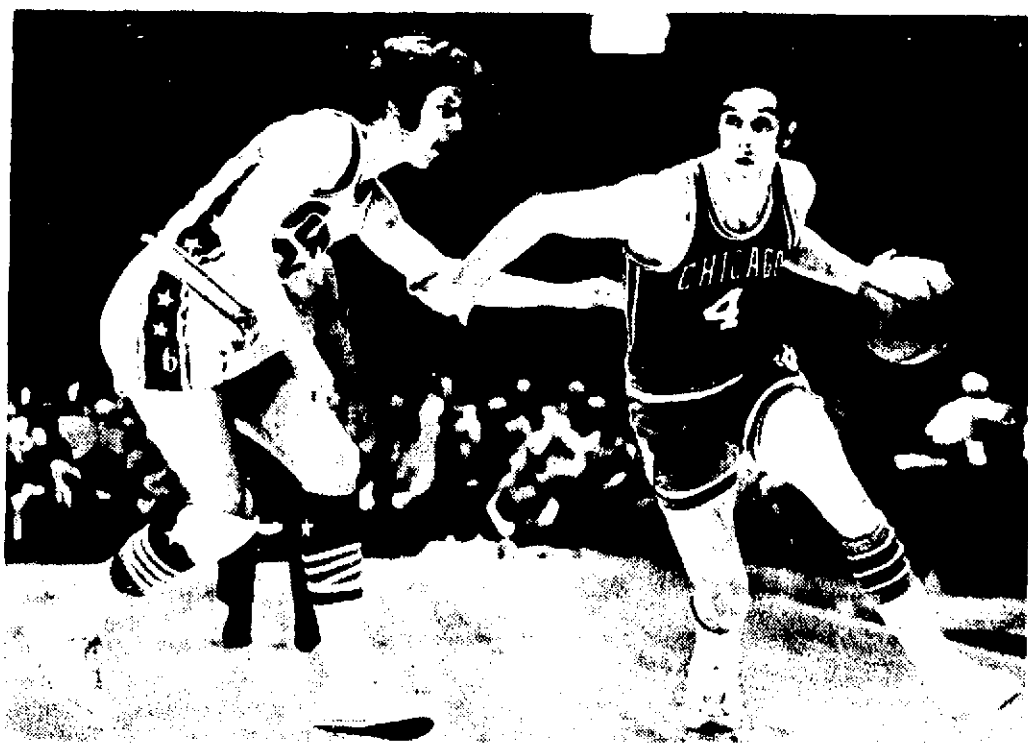

His self-image is based on the skepticism with which he was greeted when he entered the league, not a great natural shooter and seemingly too small to play forward, not fast enough to play guard. It is a self-image that has led to a playing style based on determination and energy, a style composed of a fanatically persistent pursuit of rebounds and loose balls that at times borders on frenzy, a tenacious annoying pursuit of the man he is defending against and a remarkably productive pursuit of the opportunistic points that come to an alert player.

Though he says he is finally, in his seventh pro season and sixth as a regular, learning to relax a little, he hasn't forgotten what it was like for a relatively unknown, small college player struggling to establish himself in the NBA.

"Rebounding is still the part of the game I like best," he says, "because when I get a rebound I'm proving I can do something they said I couldn't do when I first came into the league."

"You know you're going to take your lumps under there. But if you're afraid of contact you shouldn't be in this league anyway."

The lumps, in fact, seem to bother Sloan a lot less than the fact that his style of play is not better appreciated.

JERRY SLOAN (4), with a typical look of determination, gives himself a helping hand as he drives past Kevin Loughery of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The verdict was condemned by Carrasco's own countrymen and the WBC ordered a rematch.

Dolphins Have Leading Passer, Scorer in AFC

NEW YORK (AP) — The leading passer in the National Football League's American Conference is Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins. And the leading scorer in the AFC is Garo Yepremian of the same Miami Dolphins. So is it any wonder that Miami is one of the team in the NFL's post-season playoffs?

Statistics released by the league today show Griese with a 54.5 per cent average on 132 completions of 242 attempts including 19 touchdowns this season. Yepremian has scored 108 points including 26 of 37 attempted field goals.

Griese's passing game is complimented by the rushing of Larry Csonka, whose 983 yards gained are second only to Denver's Floyd Little, who has gained 1,054. Csonka's running mate, Jim Kiick, has gained 684 yards, eighth best in the conference.

The pass-catching leader is Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff, who's grabbed 59 compared to 53 for Otis Taylor of Kansas City.

In the National Conference, the leading rusher is rookie John Brockington of Green Bay, who soared over the 1,000-yard mark last week and now has 1,032 compared to 977 for Willie Ellison of Los Angeles.

Roger Staubach of Dallas, averaging 8.9 yards gained with every completed pass, is the leader among the conference quarterbacks while Bob Tucker of New York, with 51 catches, is the top receiver, leading San Francisco's Ted Kwalick by two receptions.

Cardinals' 3rd Baseman Wins Hutch Award

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals, National League batting champion and Most Valuable Player last season, has been named the 1971 winner of the Hutch Award.

The award, a project of major league broadcasters and sports writers, is awarded annually to the major league player who best exemplifies the competitive spirit of the late Fred Hutchinson.

Hutchinson, former major league pitcher and manager of the Detroit Tigers, St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, died of cancer in November, 1964.

Torre, the Cardinals third baseman, batted .363 and knocked in 137 runs to lead both of the categories in the 1971 NL season.

He beat San Francisco's Willie McCovey, Atlanta's Hank Aaron and Chicago's Ron Santo in the voting.

Key Issues Unresolved in Monetary Crisis

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With key issues still to be resolved, the United States expects to forge a new international monetary settlement by the time the 92nd Congress reconvenes Jan. 18.

If things work out as planned, the settlement would include agreement on a new pattern of money-exchange rates, elimination of some trade barriers to U.S. goods, and some sharing of defense costs by U.S. allies.

The Nixon administration then would be ready to introduce in Congress its bill to devalue the dollar, which it agreed to do in principle earlier this week. It might also be the time for the death of the import surcharge.

U.S. officials have emphasized that any monetary settlement must be a package deal in which elimination of some trade barriers, notably by the Common Market, and sharing of defense costs are included.

But the next month will be crucial. First, finance ministers and central bankers of the 10 richest non-Communist nations gather here this week to discuss how much their currencies should be worth in relation to each other. At the same time, U.S. officials plan bilateral talks with trade representatives on stripping away barriers to U.S. exports.

Then President Nixon has key meetings scheduled with leaders of West Germany, Japan and Britain. Trade and burden-sharing of defense costs are expected to be among topics of discussion.

Nixon broke a logjam and enhanced a currency-trade-defense-cost settlement when he agreed to devalue the dollar as part of a new international monetary settlement. He did so Tuesday in a meeting in the Azores with French President Georges Pompidou.

The United States wants revaluation of several major currencies to go along with the dollar devaluation, principally an increase in the value of the Japanese yen and the West German mark.

The aim of all this is to eliminate the nation's long-standing deficit in its balance of payments and, just as important, to make the United States more competitive in world trade.

Prospects that the finance ministers and central bankers will sketch the broad outlines of new currency realignments at this week's meeting appear promising, at least in the mind of the Treasury Department.

"There is still a substantial amount of hope that progress can be made this weekend," a spokesman said.

Reluctant to Talk After Lonely Life as Prisoner

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Standing erect in front of a Christmas tree, hands clasped, his voice low and often inaudible, Richard Fecteau told of the lonely 19 years he spent in a Communist Chinese prison.

"I was alone so long," Fecteau said Wednesday.

Because of this, the 43-year-old Fecteau said he now found it difficult to meet and speak with people.

Fecteau, an Army civilian employee who spent half of his 19 years imprisonment in solitary, held his first meeting with newsmen since he and Mary Ann Harbert were released Monday in Hong Kong.

Miss Harbert, 25, of Palo Alto, Calif., who spent more than three years in prison in China and had been given up for dead by her parents, said she would speak with newsmen today.

Previously she posed for photographs but had refused to answer questions.

But Polly Harbert, her mother, said that during a tearful telephone conversation Wednesday that Mary Ann said she wants some new dresses, but absolutely no slacks.

"I guess she's been wearing pants in China. Wouldn't you assume that?"

Miss Harbert and Fecteau both are awaiting final results of medical tests at nearby Valley Forge Medical Center and Hospital where they were taken Tuesday on their arrival on the U.S. mainland after a 27-hour flight from Hong Kong.

A doctor said they appeared somewhat fatigued but "otherwise essentially normal," although Miss Harbert, who weighs 97 pounds, "appears somewhat thin."

The doctor said both had experienced eye trouble during their confinement that was diagnosed by Chinese doctors as trachoma, an infectious disease attributable to poor sanitary conditions.

In neither instance, an eye specialist said, "is there any apparent likelihood of impairment of vision."

Fecteau said he generally was treated well by his captors although he was "in solitary the first three years and the last five or six years" in a prison in Peking, the Chinese capital.

He declined comment on details of his capture.

Fecteau said his main concern now was to get home.

"I am in good health and I want to see my family," he said. "I want to be home for Christmas."

Racing Stock Deals Brought Indictments

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The indictment of Federal Judge Otto Kerner, former governor of Illinois, stems from a lengthy investigation into alleged stock misdealings between race track operators and a number of one-time state officials.

Kerner, a 63-year-old Democrat who headed the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders in 1967, was accused in a federal grand jury indictment returned Wednesday of allegedly sharing in the profits of $350,000 worth of racing stock allegedly purchased for $70,000. He asked for and was granted relief from his activities on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Three former state officials appointed by Kerner during his two gubernatorial terms from 1960 to 1968 and a Chicago businesswoman also were indicted.

The grand jury charged that the racing shares were made available to Kerner and others to gain favorable racing dates.

Government officials said the investigation into Kerner's race track stock began nearly two years ago.

Kerner, a longtime political figure here and close confidant of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, resigned as governor on March 20, 1968, to accept a lifetime appointment on the appeals court.

Doctors Corps to Get Their Marching Order

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government-paid physicians, dentists and nurses will get their marching orders Thursday to begin providing health care in doctor-poor city slums and rural areas.

The National Health Service Corps, a pioneer effort to cure lack of medical treatment in high-crime and low-income regions where private doctors hesitate to practice, hopes to place health professionals in 20 areas by the end of January, with another 20 in March and between 20 and 60 by July.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson has approved regulations to be published Thursday in the Federal Register, implementing the 1970 Emergency Health Personnel Act.

The regulations provide for free care for poor people and a sliding-fee scale for others unable to pay the full cost of medical treatment.

"It is not socialized medicine," said Dr. H. McDonald Rimple, interim director of the corps. "The program is designed to alleviate the critical manpower shortages in these doctor-starved areas."

Rimple emphasized that no final decision has been made concerning the first 20 communities to receive the Public Health Service professionals. The law sets out a complicated paperwork procedure, in which the assistance must be requested by public or private health agencies and the need must be certified by state and local medical and dental societies.

Plea-Bargaining May be Accepted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Procedural Committee of the state Criminal Code Revision Committee has recommended that the Arkansas Supreme Court recognize and sanction plea-bargaining.

The practice, which has been going on secretly for a number of years, is the process by which prosecuting attorneys negotiate privately with accused persons or their attorneys to persuade the person to plead guilty in exchange for the prosecutor's recommendation of a specified term.

The courts have never sanctioned the practice or acknowledged its existence.

The recommendation was one of several made by the committee to help guarantee speedy trials and tighten up criminal court procedures to reduce the number of appeals from convictions.

The committee's recommendations still must be cleared with the full Criminal Code Revision Commission and with the Supreme Court before they go into effect.

Admits Prison Standards Low

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mississippi County officials, in a stipulation filed with U.S. District Court Judge G. Thomas Eisele, admit that conditions at the Mississippi County Penal Farm are below constitutional standards.

The stipulation was prepared by attorneys for both sides in a suit that challenges the legality of conditions at the farm.

Eisele released copies of the stipulation Wednesday.

The stipulation said that both sides were in agreement that further improvements in the operation of the penal farm must be made if the institution is to be operated in compliance with minimum federal standards.

The plaintiffs said in the stipulation that certain improvements had been made at the farm but more were needed.

EXPENSIVE DOVES

Okays Funds for Rent Subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., announced Wednesday that the Department of Housing and Urban Development had approved funds totaling more than $171,000 for rent subsidies at two apartment complexes in Arkansas.

The agency has approved a $94,533 rent subsidy for 10 two-story buildings containing 128 apartments at Fort Smith and a $77,453 rent subsidy for 15 two-story buildings containing 131 units at Springdale.

Wandering Boy Claims He's British Runaway

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy found wandering in the terminal of Tampa International Airport Wednesday says he's a runaway from a British boarding school.

The youth, identified by juvenile authorities as Phillip Davison of Coventry, England, told police he stowed away on a British Overseas Airways flight from London to New York City late Monday.

Davison said he then sneaked aboard a National Airlines plane bound for Tampa, juvenile officials said.

Airport guards stopped Davison for questioning in the terminal but, according to one officer, "he changed his story several times" and was turned over to police.

Authorities did not disclose how long the youth had meandered about the terminal, nor what roused their suspicions.

In Coventry, police said Davison was listed missing from a boys' home there and called him a "real adventurer."

The boy took off about a month ago on another excursion and turned up in Switzerland, Coventry police said.

Juvenile officers said the slightly built youngster with a thick British accent told them he ran away from a school in Gilwern, Wales.

A. W. Alexandre, a Florida Division of Youth Services counselor, said late Wednesday it had not yet been determined how the boy managed to stow away twice, if he actually did.

Once the story is pieced together Alexandre said and "if it checks out to be correct" the youth will be turned over to immigration officials to be returned home.

"If the account is incorrect, we'll have to start at the beginning," he added.

Mills Says He Will Campaign
SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur Mills, of Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, says he will campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination after his name is placed in nomination at the convention.

"I'm going to be a candidate at the convention whether I want it or not, and let me tell you this," he said, "When my state puts my name up, I'm going all out to get as many delegates as I can."

Mills told the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce Monday night he will not run in all the presidential primaries because "I don't have the money."

"I don't know where to get the money, and if I did, there is too much Scotch in me to spend the $12 million to $15 million necessary to participate."

Burning Trash Is Forbidden

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — S. Ladd Davies, director of the Department of Pollution Control and Ecology, has informed Conway that it must cease open burning at the city dump.

Davies wrote Mayor Walter Dunaway on Dec. 2 that the burning had to cease within 10 days.

The letter said the city should report to his office what steps are being taken to dispose of waste.

Davies had said the city previously had been warned twice and had ignored the warnings.

The city dump is about one mile north of Conway off Arkansas 25.

Topless Dancer Lounge Closed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County sheriff's deputies padlocked Ken's Lounge here Wednesday and arrested Helen Barnett, 29, a topless dancer at the lounge, on a charge of indecent exposure.

Deputy Pros. Atty. John A. Anderson Jr. filed the petition for the closing order alleging the establishment was a public nuisance because of the topless dancing acts and other reasons.

Officers said 15 customers in the lounge were ordered out and padlocks were placed on the front and rear doors.

Miss Barnett was the third topless dancer to be arrested for indecent exposure at the lounge in the past month.

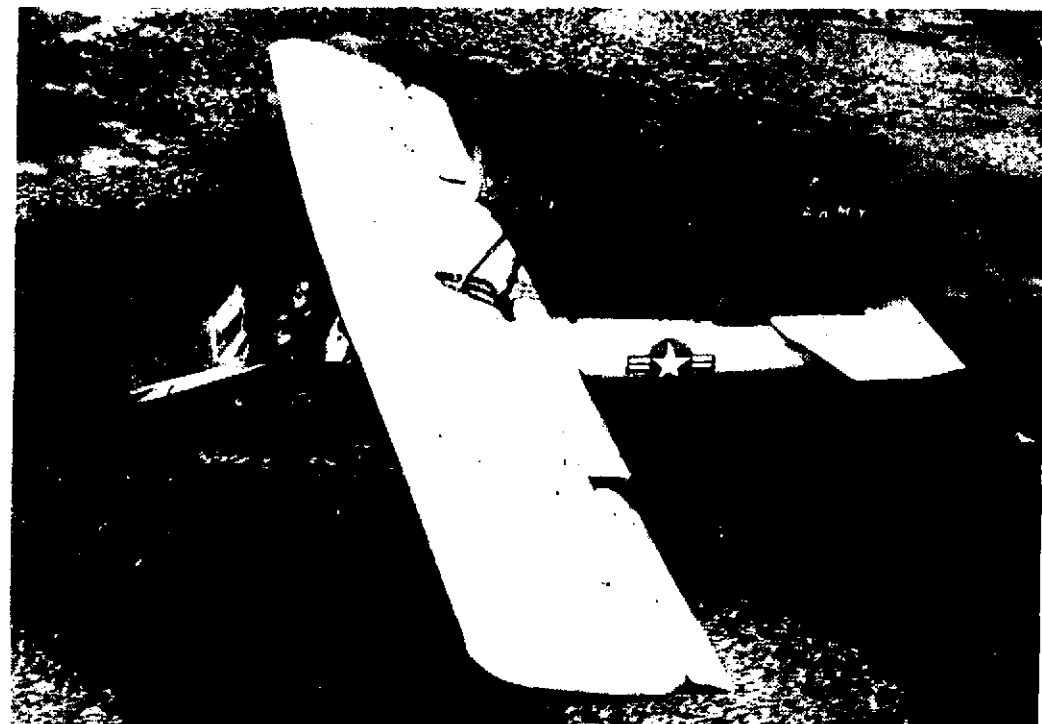

Honored for Atomic Research
BERLIN (AP) — East Germany has awarded its Golden Medal for distinguished service to Klaus Fuchs, a scientist once sentenced to 14 years in prison in Britain for passing atomic secrets to Russia.

In reporting the award Monday, the East German news agency ADN said that the 60-year-old Fuchs is now deputy director of the East German Atomic Research Center at Hossendorf.

Fuchs was sentenced in 1950 and served nine years of his term before being released.

Left, component parts are spread out for the inflating operation, which one or two men can handle in about six minutes. When fully inflated, it is 19.2 feet long, has a 28-foot wing span. # ONLY ALL-NEW PICKUP for 1972.

DODGE. DEPEND ON IT.

GREAT NEW RIDE.

This all-new '72 Dodge has a brand-new, independent front suspension. Combine this with a wider front and rear track, plus a longer wheelbase (131"), and you have a great new pickup with a great new ride.

TOUGH CONSTRUCTION.

Even though this is an all-new pickup you still get all the toughness you'd expect in a Dodge. For example, the cargo box has thick double walls and ribbed inner panels for greater strength.

ROOMIEST CAB AROUND.

The Dodge designers gave this all-new pickup doors that are two inches wider and open nine degrees farther for easy exit and entry. Shoulder room has been increased by over four inches and the taller cab gives you a full 13 inches of seat height for greater leg support.

Connally to Resume Trail Boss Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Likened to a Texas steamroller after his last appearance on the world financial stage, John B. Connally resumes his trail boss job Friday in the U.S. drive to rearrange international monetary affairs.

Connally left foreign colleagues to off-the-record mutterings about Texas cowboys after his bravura performance at a meeting of financial leaders early this month.

In a surprise move, the Treasury secretary let it become abundantly evident in sessions at Rome's Palazzo Corsini that the United States was willing to undertake the previously unthinkable: devalue the dollar.

President Nixon's announcement Tuesday of his willingness to do so had been clearly foreshadowed by Connally dealings.

Connally, a Lyndon Baines Johnson protege in the often rough and tumble school of Texas politics, "would be better sticking to his guns and lasso," said one European governmental source after the Rome meeting.

"If Connally hadn't acted like a Texas steamroller in Rome," said another, "the Europeans probably wouldn't have formed a common front as quickly as they did."

Whether the Europeans have indeed formed a common front before U.S. monetary moves may become known Friday when the finance ministers and central bankers from the Group of 10, the world's richest industrial nations, assemble here to tackle again the knotty problems of world finance.

For Connally, the meeting is another step in a career that has included being governor of Texas, secretary of the Navy for John F. Kennedy and attorney for the enterprises of the late super-rich oilman, Sid Richardson.

Former Beatle Respects Thant

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Beatle John Lennon says he and his wife Yoko "only" respect the sincerity of U.N. Secretary General U Thant and his efforts for peace.

Lennon spoke with newsmen after he and his wife attended a luncheon for Thant sponsored by the World Federalists.

During the luncheon Tuesday, Lennon took up a guitar and offered a song, "Imagine," for Thant, who retires Dec. 31 after 10 years as secretary general.

The lyrics envisioned a world of peace with "nothing to kill or die for."

Club Sees a Film

JON LEIM

Kiwanian Jon Leim had charge of Tuesday's Kiwanis Club program and presented a film, "Explo 72".

In opening remarks Dr. Leim stated that our campuses had experienced a period of comparative calm in the past few months, but that it was rumored a large scale disruptive movement would occur next September, promoted by a radical element in our society. "The world's peoples need a force to combat radicalism and bring peace among men. We have such a force in a man, Jesus Christ, if we would only turn to Him," said Dr. Leim.

The film Explo 72, featuring Dr. Billy Graham and other Christian leaders, outlined plans for a World Youth Congress to be held in Dallas, Texas in June 1972. Originally projected by the Campus Crusade for Christ organization, other Christian bodies have joined the movement which will bring together 100,000 young people from campuses all over America, including foreign Nationals studying in the United States, each dedicated to sharing the Gospel of Jesus Christ with peoples all over this country and into other countries of the world.

The morning sessions will be devoted to training, learning how best to share the Good News with those with whom one comes in contact in daily life. There will be Seminars, Workshops, and Action Groups. Though the programs will be varied there is a more or less singular purpose in this Congress, to make men aware of what a life dedicated to the cause of Christ can mean in that life.

The closing session of the Congress on Saturday afternoon, June 17th, will attract an expected 250,000 delegates to a natural amphitheater near Dallas where Dr. Graham, and Bill Bright, Director of The Campus Crusade for Christ, will issue a challenge to all present to go into the world and share God's love and forgiveness with every person.

Clifford Franks, Kiwanis Club Treasurer, announced that the Board of Directors had approved a gift of $350.00 through the Key Club for Operation Good Will, a high school project to provide a little Christmas cheer for some underprivileged children, and a gift of $250.00 to the School of Hope on their operating expenses.

Wendell H. Grissom, Secretary of the Magnolia Kiwanis Club, was the only guest at Tuesday's meeting.

Jackie Helps Slum Children

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for a shelter for slum children in Harlem says Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis worked with children there for one day a week during the spring and summer months.

The McMahon Memorial Temporary Shelter spokesman said Monday that the former first lady had asked that her work at the shelter be kept confidential.

Mrs. Onassis' secretary, Nancy Tuckerman, said even she hadn't known about Mrs. Onassis' volunteer work until a newsman had called to ask her about it and she confirmed it with Mrs. Onassis.

Pollution Issue to Hit All Industry

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency plans to require basic treatment of virtually all industrial discharges into U.S. waterways, even where states don't demand it.

EPA general counsel John Quarles Jr. says EPA's 10 regional administrators are being directed to apply a minimum requirement of "secondary treatment or its equivalent" to all permits for industrial waste discharges into navigable waters.

More stringent controls are to be imposed where required to meet state water-quality standards, he said in an interview.

Quarles said the directive "reaffirms and clarifies" existing policy which was not spelled out in writing before.

The "clarification," however, marks the first open establishment by EPA of a nationwide industrial treatment standard.

Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said last April that "the federal government is responsible for establishing minimum national requirements and supervising state activities."

At that time, EPA had contracted out development of what it hoped would be specific guidelines for water-pollution controls on some 20 major industrial categories.

By July, however, Ruckelshaus concluded that mandatory guidelines were not practical.

Regional administrators, responsible for writing antipollution terms into federal permits required for industrial discharges, were directed only to use their best professional judgment.

To answer any questions about the policy, Quarles said, he was sending a new memo to the regional administrators, making it clear that:

—EPA will require each industrial plant subject to a permit to achieve at least a minimum level of pollution control; thus, there may not be any no-treatment permits.

—The permits must specify discharge limitations and time-tables for achieving them.

—Exact requirements must be determined case by case, but the general standard will be "secondary treatment or its equivalent," that is, treatment roughly equivalent to that given municipal wastes.

—The minimum requirement includes plants located on either intrastate or interstate waterways, including waters for which no state standards have been adopted.

—The federal minimum standard applies even where a lower treatment level might satisfy existing state standards.

—Where serious pollution exists, more-stringent controls must be applied if necessary to achieve applicable water quality standards.

Renews Grant for Training

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Ozarks Regional Commission voted Wednesday to renew a $196,500 grant to the Arkansas Industry Training Program.

The second-year grant matches the commission's initial funding of the program, whose fiscal management had been questioned by the state's legislative auditors.

Gov. Dale Bumpers suggested that in the future the project, if it deserves continuing, should be totally supported by the state. The state now provides more than $200,000 of the project cost.

"After next year, as far as I'm concerned, it can sink or swim on its own," Bumpers told the commission.

The program was established in 1970 to train employees for new and expanding industries in Arkansas.

Larry S. Brown was dismissed as project director Oct. 8 shortly before a legislative audit alleged numerous instances of conflicts of interests, falsified invoices, payments for work not performed and violations of purchasing laws and other fiscal statutes in the operations of the program.

Greater Need Than Ever for Vocational Schools

This is a vocational-technical oriented society which needs young people who are equipped with proper attitudes and technical knowledge to fill technical jobs.

Only 15 to 20 per cent of high school graduates finish college, and in many areas there is a surplus of college graduates. 80-85 per cent of our students need vocational education and training.

If the state post secondary vocational-technical schools are not already full, they will be in the next few years. They will be able to take only a small fraction of the students.

This puts the problem back on the secondary schools and on the entire public school system. Even though there are several area vocational-technical schools available, including Red River Vocational-Technical School here in Hope, they are not large enough to afford the training needed by everyone in this area.

"The Hope Public School system wants to solve this problem. In order to do this, we need the support of the community. We have some programs in operation, but they are not sufficient to meet the needs of our students," explains Jim Bullock, vocational counselor.

No longer does vocational education include only agriculture and home economics courses. The vocational department of Hope High School has eight instructors and a vocational counselor. These teachers cover subjects ranging from agriculture and home economics to actual working experience in businesses and industries in the Hope area.

The Vocational Department consists of: Troy Buck, vocational agriculture instructor, has taken on the added job of Hope High School Vocational Department head. Jim Bullock, vocational counselor, Don Thompson, vocational agriculture instructor; H. M. Smith, vocational agriculture instructor; Jim Caudle, coordinator of the Exemplary Projects. Others include Mrs. Helen Clark, home economics instructor; Estelle Spearman, home economics instructor; and Mrs. Carol Lester, teacher coordinator of occupations.

"We would like to extend a cordial invitation to any parent or interested citizen to visit our school at any time. This will give you a better understanding of what we are doing. It will also give you more insight as to what is needed to solve the problems in vocational education in Hope, Arkansas," according to members of the Vocational Department Hope High School.

Mayor Asked to Turn Off Music

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Henry Glascock forgot to shut off a record player in his office that was sending out Christmas music over a loud speaker system.

When the same record kept playing over and over, a woman who lives five blocks from City Hall decided there was only one thing to do.

She called the mayor at home, at 1 a.m., and asked him to please shut off the Christmas music. Glascock went down to the office and threw the switch.

Jack Nicklaus uses an iron when others use a driver. Most experts use 20-point two no-trump openings although they claim to stick to 21.

Nicklaus can get enough distance with his iron, but sometimes an expert has trouble getting enough tricks with 20 points.

When South looked over dummy he wished he hadn't shaded his opening. Then he decided to make the best of it. He started by playing a low diamond from dummy.

East signalled with the eight and West was faced with a problem. Was his partner left with a singleton jack or a doubleton 10? West guessed wrong and continued a small diamond.

South gratefully took in the trick with his jack. Then he cashed his four top clubs while East discarded the three of spades and deuce of hearts and West got rid of the spade deuce.

South still had a lot of work ahead of him, but made the right play of the spade nine. East took the trick and made things easy for South by leading back a diamond.

This let South in dummy to lead a spade and wind up with one heart, two diamonds, two spades, four clubs and the rubber.

It was possible to beat this contract after the lead of the low diamond at trick two. Don't write us and ask how unless you enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Proof by Poll

Science has long played a vital role in the courtroom. X-rays, blood tests, photographs, fingerprints—all are familiar ingredients in the judicial process.

But what about the data provided by a modern public opinion poll? Are polls considered scientific enough to be trusted?

To a growing degree, yes. As polling has become more skillful, courts have become less skeptical. The fact remains, however, that the law will take a hard look at any particular poll before putting faith in its findings.

To begin with, the poll must be extensive enough to be significant. In one case, an accused felon sought a change of venue on the ground that the local populace was prejudiced against him. But the only proof of prejudice was a poll of a few dozen individuals.

The court decided that such a poll did not carry enough weight to make its point. Nor will the results be persuasive if the questioner uses "leading questions." A soap company claimed in court that the name of a new chewing gum was so similar to the name of its soap that the public would be confused.

To prove it, the company produced a survey that seemingly did show such confusion. But the questions had been slanted to induce the desired answers. The court decided this poll wasn't worth much either as a means of proof.

On the other hand, in a case involving a charge of false advertising, a carefully conducted poll was accepted as good evidence of how the ad was understood by the average consumer.

And in a case testing the use of radios on buses, a poll helped to prove that most of the passengers liked the idea.

Most successfully, polls have been used in trademark cases to ascertain how familiar the public is with a brand name.

Of course, polls will never be as scientific as fingerprints. But when the state of the public mind is at issue, polling can give justice a kind of help it can get in no other way.

For whatever is born of God overcomes the world; and this is the victory that overcomes the world, our faith.—1 John 5:4

Victory at all costs, victory in spite of all terror, victory however long and hard the road may be; for without victory there is no survival.—Sir Winston Churchill.

Scouts Visit School of Hope

Christmas Joy was shared by all Monday, December 13, when Dens 1 and 4, Pack 62, Cub Scouts visited the School of Hope.

As their Christmas Good Will Project, Pack 62 carried a tree furnished by the Webeloes and Don Franklin, their leader, and many gifts, also fruitcakes and gifts donated by Ideal Bakery and Western Auto.

The Cub Scouts made the many lovely decorations with which they, together with the children of the School of Hope, trimmed the Christmas tree.

Christmas Carols were sung, first by the Cub Scouts, then the children responded by singing a Carol for the Scouts. A wonderful time was enjoyed by all.

The Cub Scouts were accompanied by their leaders: Den 1: Den Mother, Mrs. Birkett Wylie; Assistant Den Mother, Mrs. Don Fuller; and helper, Mrs. Hansford Long; Den 4: Den Mother, Mrs. Doyle Shields; Assistant Den Mother, Mrs. Bobby Brown.

The Family Tradition Is the Styptic Pencil

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — During the holiday season, along with remnants of wrapping paper, Christmas card lists, light strings and ornaments, family traditions make their annual appearance.

It may be the reading of "The Night Before Christmas"; going caroling; the yearly egg-nog party; or the same old lopsided star at the top of the tree.

Our family tradition is the styptic pencil.

It all started the Christmas our daughter was 6. By promising to turn over to her older brother her assigned viewing time on our one television set, she had bribed him to take her shopping at the neighborhood 10-cent store.

Gay had made her purchases, except for finding a present for her father—a matter to which she was devoting lengthy search. However, her taste ran to the most expensive merchandise and Brenn, better versed in finance, pointed out that she had only one dime left.

Since gift items available for that sum were somewhat limited, the remainder of the shopping expedition threatened to be a protracted as well as tearful one. Brenn, impatient to get back to his favorite TV program, resourcefully directed his impecunious sister's attention to a styptic pencil—price 10 cents. He gave her the hard sell, predicting that it might even save her father's life by stemming the bleeding should he cut himself while shaving. Gay bit—and bought.

On Christmas morning Daddy welcomed the gift with such enthusiasm that Gay smugly took full credit for the choice. During the year Daddy tactfully managed to nick himself a few times and to remark to Gay that her first-aid item was more useful than a tourniquet.

Having been so successful the previous year, Gay decided to stick with a winner the next Christmas, and again there was a styptic pencil waiting under the tree for her father, even though the price had gone up to 15 cents.

By the time she was 8, Gay's allowance had grown, but so had her sense of humor, and she purchased a styptic pencil for old times' sake, along with another present. From that time on the gift showed up every year, sometimes wrapped in glowing foil with fancy bow, sometimes a tiny package hidden in the tree.

Jack the Ripper couldn't have used up those styptic pencils as fast as my husband acquired them.

A couple of years ago we were facing our first Christmas without the kids. Brenn was in California and Gay was going to school in Paris. Gamely, we decorated the tree but the lights didn't seem as bright as usual.

Then, on Christmas Eve, Gay walked in the door. She had turned in her ticket for a scheduled class trip and used the money for a surprise visit home.

She brought us a lot of lovely things, but her father's favorite present was the French version of a styptic pencil, in a squat metal case instead of a thin glass tube, and bearing the label: "Hemo Stick, pour les coupures de rasoir."

My Lai Trial in Hands of Jury

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — After 3½ months of trial, 106 witnesses and thousands of pages of testimony, the jury today will begin debating the guilt or innocence of Col. Oran K. Henderson on charges of covering up the My Lai massacre.

The two generals and five colonels on the jury will be sent into seclusion after the military judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, reads from a detailed list of instructions on the legal issues in the case.

It was the sixth time a military panel was asked to tackle the issue of My Lai and involves the last such charges on file.

While other trials involved responsibility for the slayings, the Henderson court-martial dealt with the break in the chain of command that kept word of the deaths at My Lai from reaching Army headquarters for a year.

Henderson is charged with dereliction of duty in failing to conduct an adequate investigation of reports that civilians were killed in the attack on March 16, 1968. He also is charged with not reporting a war crime to his division commander and with making a false statement under oath when questioned about My Lai at a Pentagon inquiry.

Henderson faces a maximum sentence of 39 months in prison upon conviction of all charges, the term set by the jury in later deliberations. Both a guilty verdict and sentence go automatically to a lengthy review process.

Henderson is the highest ranking officer to be put on trial as a result of My Lai. In the five previous trials one man, Lt. William Calley Jr., was convicted. His life sentence on conviction earlier this year of murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians has been reduced to 30 years and is still undergoing appeals.

Meany Reported Doing Fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — An AFL-CIO spokesman says President George Meany has returned to his home after two weeks in the hospital and hopes to return to his desk after the holidays.

"The doctor describes his condition as fine. He says all the coronary tests were normal," the union spokesman said Tuesday.

Meany, 77, was hospitalized Nov. 25 after suffering severe chest pains. He was released last Saturday.

In some countries, right now, they're busy making their New Year's resolutions

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Serling, with help from Edward G. Robinson and some other good actors, turned out a fine holiday fantasy on Wednesday night's "Night Gallery."

"Messiah on Mott Street" was a story combining Christmas and Chanukah, about a penniless and sick old Jew who is fighting to stay alive for the sake of his beloved little grandson, an orphan. He defied his doctor and then the angel of death, telling his grandson that the shadow the boy saw was the Messiah visiting to bring good news.

The story, essentially a fable about love and good will, was climaxed by a miracle.

The fascinating aspect of NBC's "Columbo" segment of "Mystery Movie" is the format that lets the viewer in on the crime and the identity of the criminal at the outset. The fun is watching dogged, apologetic Lt. Columbo as he pulls together the clues leading to his solution.

Peter Falk, working in his usual devious way Wednesday night, made some clever deductions as he solved the murder.

With all the detectives and investigators floating around network channels, it might seem that producing and selling a mystery series would be a fairly simple project. It's not. This Friday night NBC's "World Premiere" film will be "They Call It Murder," a series pilot using the late Erle Stanley Gardner's character, district attorney Doug Selby, as the leading character.

Producer Cornwell Jackson and his wife, former actress Gail Patrick, have been working on a Doug Selby series since the days when another Gardner project, "Perry Mason" was in its network heyday—more than six years.

Although the networks have yet to launch their mid-season replacements, the 1971-72 TV season is behind as far as the programming staffs are concerned: they are concentrating on next September's shows. To nobody's surprise, ABC has already renewed "The F.B.I." for another season and CBS has signed Lucille Ball for her 21st season.

Other almost perfunctory renewals will be announced, one by one—pick the names of the shows right off the top two-thirds of the Nielsen list.

Nixon Mending Fences

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid signs the White House wants to mend pre-election fences with Republican liberals, efforts for President Nixon's 1972 campaign open this week in two more states.

GOP organizations in Maryland and Oregon, both states with liberal Republican senators, will announce formation of committees to run Nixon's all-but-certain campaign. Despite the absence of an official candidacy announcement, a reelection committee already has been established in New Hampshire.

Reports have been circulating in recent weeks that Maryland Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. is on a White House list of those to be purged.

But Mathias, who does not boast about his occasional breaks with the administration, planned to be present today in Baltimore for the campaign kickoff. Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., a more consistent Nixon supporter, also will be on hand.

And Mathias' aides Tuesday asserted the senator's support of Nixon's re-election bid, denying any reports of a purge.

It was also learned Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has told Mathias not to worry, that the purge reports were totally unfounded. Mathias is up for reelection in 1974.

Liberal Republican Mark Hatfield of Oregon, whose term expires next year, also said he is happy with arrangements for opening the Nixon campaign Thursday in his state.

Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., will be named chairman of the drive and Hatfield said Henry Flemming of the Washington-based national committee for the Re-election of the President asked him beforehand about naming Wyatt.

"They were very solicitous," Hatfield said, "and most anxious to work together. They couldn't have got a better man than Wendell Wyatt."

The liberal fears date back to the 1970 congressional election when Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., a liberal, had to run without White House support. He was defeated.

One spokesman for the national committee, while denying the campaign announcements were timed to end talk of purges, said "certainly that will be one effect."

Holy Land Ready for Pilgrimage

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is ready for its biggest Christmas since capturing Bethlehem in 1967, the Tourism Ministry reported Tuesday.

As many as 35,000 visitors were expected before the end of the year, a tourism official predicted. About 29,000 pilgrims visited Israel last year.

A report broadcast by the state radio told, however, of cancellation of hotel reservations because of increased tension in the Middle East.

PICKLED PEACH SLICES

Made ahead and good to have on hand
2 cans (each 1 pound, 13 ounces) yellow cling peach slices
3/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 cinnamon stick, about 2 inches long

Drain the syrup from 1 can of the peaches into a medium saucepan. To the syrup add the sugar, vinegar, allspice, cloves and cinnamon. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Increase heat and bring to a boil. Boil for 7 minutes. Drain the syrup from the other can of peaches (use syrup some other way) and turn all the peach slices into a shallow container. Pour the boiling hot syrup and spices over the peaches. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight. Serve with a slotted spoon or drain peaches before offering. Makes 12 to 16 servings. To keep longer than overnight, remove spices because they darken the fruit.

One-Fourth of Mankind

(5. The Great Society)

by Don Oakley and John Lane

The Day of the Mandarin

36 B.C. - A Brief Meeting of East and West

Culture Flowers Under the Han...

I have conquered the empire on horseback, and on horseback I propose to hold it.

- Liu Pang

The man who won the Dragon Throne in 207 B.C. after the fall of the Ch'in, the dynasty that had united China, was an ex-farmer and man of action who had little use for intellectual concerns.

But neither Liu Pang nor his successors found they could govern long without the support of the respected scholar class.

It was during the Han dynasty which, with one interruption, ruled China for the next 400 years, that the basic and enduring features of the Chinese way of government were established.

Centuries before, the philosophers had taught that all mankind ought to belong to the same nation, the same "Great Society." Now that the totalitarian Ch'in dynasty was deposed, Confucianism began to revive.

Following the Confucian ideal that the most able men should govern, an early form of civil service examinations was begun. Those who passed were called mandarins and became officials in the state bureaucracy.

During the 53-year reign of the greatest of the Han emperors, Wu Ti (140-87 B.C.), Confucianism was proclaimed the official cult of the state. Under Wu Ti, and after him, Chinese arms penetrated in all directions, from Korea to modern Vietnam to deep into central Asia. On one occasion, in 36 B.C., Chinese soldiers are believed to have actually encountered Roman legionaries somewhere east of the Caspian Sea.

According to Su-ma Ch'in, called the father of Chinese history, the early days of Han were prosperous. The granaries overflowed and the government had so much surplus cash that the strings tying it rotted.

The wars of Wu Ti, waged both for glory and to push back the barbarians who were ever ready to pounce on China, took care of this. Wu Ti also extended the Great Wall and founded Central University at the capital, Ch'angan. Near the end of the dynasty it boasted more than 30,000 students.

He decreed that prices were to be regulated by the state by buying grain and other staples when they were plentiful and cheap and selling when prices began to rise. Salt and iron were made government monopolies.

The reign of Wu Ti saw the first of three famous attempts to apply socialistic principles to the building of the Great Society. The next experiment came about a century after him.

Woman Physician Strikes Blow against Women's Lib

By OTTO DOELLING, Associated Press Writer FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — "Women let men work for them, think for them and bear responsibility for them. Women exploit men. Yet men are strong, intelligent and imaginative while women are weak, stupid and without imagination. Why then are men exploited by women and not the other way around?"

This blow against women's liberation was not struck by a male chauvinist. It comes from a petite, 36-year-old woman physician and writer who was born of German parentage in Argentina and who now lives in a small village near Munich.

Esther Vilar's latest book is appearing in West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, France and Scandinavia. The German title is "Der dressierte Mann" — The Trained Man.

Her theme is that the human male, superior to the female in all respects but duplicity, has been conditioned to be a beast of labor for women ever since his mother first hugged him to her breast. Woman's main weapons, in Frau Vilar's view, are sex and praise — neither of which the male can do without.

Interviewed at the recent Frankfurt International Book Fair, Frau Vilar said she began writing the book during a visit to New York, where she observed the burgeoning women's lib movement. The book is meant as a provocation, she admits.

"I have been thinking in this direction all my life," she said, "and my theory has been confirmed everywhere."

Since the book's appearance in West Germany, she has received some nasty letters from women. One woman, she said, wrote a letter threatening to scratch her eyes out.

"But I have also found a positive echo, especially among intellectual women," she said.

The book is dedicated to "those few men who don't permit themselves to be trained." Most of the men who have written her favorable letters claim they are among the untrained few.

"Most men do not want to admit they are trained," she said. "In fact they consider it a compliment when feminists describe them as strong, evil and intolerant."

Her book is replete with jabs at women's lib, such as:

"Why don't women use their brains? They do not use them because their survival is not dependent upon intellectual abilities. Theoretically, it is possible for a pretty woman with less intelligence than, let us say, a chimpanzee, to make good in life."

"It is very logical for a man to believe he is oppressing a woman when he regards her as his equal and then must see what a stupid life she is leading at his side. But as long as one can remember, women have not been forced to subjugate themselves to the wills of men. Quite to the contrary — she has been given every opportunity to make herself independent. If women have not freed themselves from their 'yoke,' there is but one explanation — she has none."

"Every woman has the choice between leading the kind of life that a man does or that of a dumb, creature of luxury and practically all choose the second possibility."

One can easily compare a woman with a business firm. Just as a firm is a neutral system for gaining maximum profit, so a woman is bound without personal love, malice or hatred to the man who works for her."

"Since women's highest ideal — a life without toil and responsibility — corresponds to that of a child, she therefore imitates the child."

Frau Vilar concedes her darts are directed at middle and upper class women.

She was divorced after only several months of marriage and now lives by herself. She does not plan to remarry.

"I do not care to have the image of a housewife. Their image is very bad at present," she remarked.

Through reeducation of women she thinks the situation can change — "perhaps in another three generations."

Reliving 1776—Hollywood Style

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Another Hollywood landmark is scheduled to disappear shortly, but before it goes, it is having one last technicolor fling. The Columbia Ranch, where so many fine films were shot, is to be converted into apartments soon after "1776" winds up its filming.

This is the biggest picture shot in these parts in a year or so. Producer Jack L. Warner, the last remaining old Hollywood tycoon who is still active, is doing it up in a big way.

They've built a replica of Independence Hall, in Philadelphia. They've built Philadelphia-style homes and streets and gardens and marketplaces. Look the other way and you see the remains of old sets — the western street, the Here Come the Brides village — but this is Philadelphia, 1776.

Warner has wisely and wonderfully elected to bring the Broadway cast, virtually intact, to the screen version of the hit musical. He even has the stage director—Peter Hunt — and choreographer—Onna White—on the payroll.

The only major change is that Blythe Danner is now the female lead, and Howard DaSilva, who plays Benjamin Franklin, thinks that's a good move.

DaSilva believes there is a major advantage to using the original cast.

"We know the lines," he says, "so there rarely is a line rehearsal. That saves money, and this is a costly production, so it's important to save money. But there is a problem in that we know the lines too well—and we have to make the whole thing smaller for the screen."

DaSilva's career has been one of ups and downs, but it goes back to "Oklahoma!" when he created the role of the heavy, Jud, and sang that memorable number, "Poor Jud Is Dead." It's easy for him to date that engagement, because his son,

Peter, was born as "Oklahoma!" opened—and Peter is now 28.

Benjamin Franklin is his favorite character of all, however, probably because of a trick of heritage.

DaSilva's father was born on Jan. 17, like Franklin. He died when he was 84, like Franklin. And his name was Benjamin. Those coincidences triggered the actor's interest in Franklin, and he had been a Franklin student long before he was cast in "1776."

"If Franklin were living today," DaSilva says, "I think he would be interested in the women's lib movement. After all, he appointed the first postmistress. I think he would have been attracted to Gloria Steinem—provided she played chess. He required a knowledge of chess in all his ladies."

"I think if Franklin were here today, he would probably feel that the world leaders we have now are pretty dull fellows. I think he would probably feel, as I do, that today's battles are soft compared to the glorious ones he fought."

DaSilva is a writer as well as an actor, and he's now at work on several projects. With Felix Leon, his collaborator on "The Zulu and the Zayde," he's doing a play about Franklin which they are calling "The Fat Boy." It would be a one-man play, but also utilize tape and film, and it is a play with a climax.

"1776" will be his first lead, although he has done many film parts and was twice nominated for an Oscar in supporting roles. He is realistic about what having a lead means to him.

"I don't believe I'm in for a booming movie career now," he says. "Not at my age. But I am very happy to be doing the part. In Hollywood a few years ago, they would have given it to Mickey Rooney."

AFTERNOON COFFEE
Prune Spice Cake Coffee
PRUNE SPICE CAKE

A substantial dessert.
2 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup vegetable shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup finely chopped pitted prunes
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. In a large mixing bowl cream shortening and sugar, beat in eggs 1 at a time. Stir in flour mixture alternately with the buttermilk until smooth each time. Fold in prunes and walnuts. Turn into a greased and floured 13 by 9 by 2 inch cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 1 hour. Turn out on a wire rack, with another rack turned top side up. Cool. Cut in squares to serve.

HOWARD DASILVA, the veteran character actor who played Benjamin Franklin in the original Broadway production of "1776," repeats the role in the movie version of the hit musical.

Queen Elizabeth Gets Boost in Her Allowance

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons has more than doubled Queen Elizabeth's annual allowance and boosted the pay of Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, over violent objections by Labor party members.

Queen Elizabeth's allowance goes from $1.2 million to $2.5 million, the queen mother's from $175,000 to $237,500 and Princess Margaret's from $37,500 to $87,500.

Laborite William Hamilton concentrated his attack during the debate Tuesday on Princess Margaret and the queen mother.

Referring to the princess, Hamilton said, "Why, oh why, are we giving this expensive, kept woman that kind of salary increase for doing what she is doing?"

He also questioned the size of the queen mother's entourage, 33, noting that it included both ladies of the bedchamber and woman of the bedchamber.

"What the blazes do they all do?" Hamilton asked.

Conservatives accused Hamilton of making a "vile attack" on royal personages.

Gourmet Corner:

By TOM HOGUE
Associated Press Writer

A gentle little man with a puckish smile sat next to me the other day and proceeded to puncture some myths about wine with the zest of a youngster popping toy balloons.

My companion was none other than Henri Martin, venerable president of the prestigious Bordeaux Wines Association. He is also mayor of the town of St. Julien in the heart of the Medoc region and owner of the renowned Chateau Gloria vineyards.

Martin led off by drawing a bead on an ancient taboo against chilling red wine under any circumstances. There was no reason, he said, why you should not put a bottle of light young red wine into the icebox half an hour before consuming, if you like your drinks on the cool side.

Martin's next target was the old adage that red wine should be drunk only with red meats and white wine with fish or fowl.

"Take any wine you prefer with whatever dish you are eating," he declared. "And incidentally red wine is good with fish, despite all the don'ts you hear."

He added, however, that one should use some common sense, such as saving a robust wine for the roast, if one is serving several wines with the meal.

Contrary to another myth — that wine devotees drink their brew in a vacuum — many like Martin, have a deep interest in food. He was somewhat shocked in fact at the American custom of gulping down a bite at lunch.

While dwelling on the merits of a good meal properly enjoyed, Martin gave me the recipe for a sauce from his native Bordeaux that is said to do wonders for a steak or most any red meat. Here it is:

SAUCE BORDELAISE
3 tbsps diced carrots, onions, celery, boiled ham
6 tbsps butter
Cook slowly for 10 minutes.
4 tbsps flour
Cook and cook 8 minutes

Serving Shortcuts for Hostesses

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK — (NFA) — Many a bachelor's lasting image of his date is that of a flying fork aimed at a constantly open maw. Young men in large cities, for example, claim they learned to cook in self-defense . . . of their weekly wages. Others succumbed to marriage and still wonder if this was a savings on the food bill. However, there remain scads of attractive and aware young women who enjoy cooking for a date or getting together with friends for a spaghetti party for 16.

Jessica Radcliffe, a secretary in Hempstead, Long Island, is described by friends as "almost old-fashioned in her desire to learn to cook and entertain."

Although at 22 she grimaces when she hears that she "just loved to make cookies with mommy as a child," Jessica carried her interest into high school classes in home economics. Many of her friends also like to collect recipes and try them out on each other, which makes entertaining a large group less of a chore. Another incentive has been her stepfather who is a judge and dabbles at gourmet dishes for guests. His specialties revolve around chafing dish recipes, and wine often is an essential part of the buffet-type meals.

During the holidays Jessica and her girl friends often combine specialties to entertain groups of 20 to 25. With a full week's work at the office she makes the most of time-saving shortcuts. Since she especially wants an attractive table-setting but with little cleanup involved Jessica turns to convenience items for serving, such as colorful, coordinated paper napkins and placemats. "I'd rather do the food myself and not use quickly, convenience mixes or frozen foods. But cleaning up. Ugh!"

Busy secretary Jessica Radcliffe uses no shortcuts when cooking for friends during holidays. She cuts cleaning-up time by using paper placemats and makes a "paper bouquet" in a goblet of odd-lot napkins to lend eye appeal to the table.

"Even though I live at home, when I have my friends in, I'm the 'maid.' Even with simple things, such as coffee and a snack, she uses a paper placemat on a serving tray. This adds a little more elegance for the holidays but makes spills easy to clean up and keeps good china from slipping.

As useful decorative items, she starts with leftover napkins that don't match for a centerpiece. "I roll an assortment of different color and design napkins," Jessica points out, "and put them in a wide-mouthed goblet. These I use for snacks or even a more elaborate meal because they are colorful."

She also likes to make colorful wraps for packaging cookies. "You can make an attractive snack pack by just slipping a few cookies or pieces of fudge into a paper napkin, twisting it, and tying a bright piece of yarn around it in a bow knot."

As Jessica prepares for them, the holidays clearly carry a personal touch.

Christmas Alone Is Memories

(Many Americans will observe Christmas this year in health, prosperity and security. Others, however, won't be so fortunate. This is a story of one of the others.)

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Ann George will not have a Christmas tree this year. Nor will she send cards to friends, or exchange gifts with relatives, or have company for holiday dinner—or, actually, do any of the happy things so much of the nation is doing to celebrate the 1971st birthday of Jesus Christ.

Ann George is in her late 70s.

"How terribly strange," says the song, "to be 70."

She is all alone this season.

Her husband died last May. He was a decent man—not rich or successful, but decent. He was an elevator operator until he got old, and after that he was nothing but old. They buried him too far away, now, for Ann to even visit.

Her family has disappeared. She never had children of her own. She has two nieces and three stepchildren—yet the nieces "don't care about me much" and the stepkids have, well, scattered so far "I can't even remember the addresses."

Her friends, too, have gone. Dead now, mostly. There is still the woman in Brooklyn

$26.90 cash bond
Frank H. Hoover, Failure to yield right of way, Forfeited $26.90 cash bond

Jerry L. Ponder, Hazardous driving, Forfeited $16.50 cash bond
Lonzo Coleman, Fictitious vehicle license, Forfeited $31.90 cash bond

H. Walker, Jr., Carrying concealed weapon, Forfeited $71.90 cash bond
Willis Cheatham, Destroying public property, Fined $21.90; restitution made

Harold Rushing, Giving overdraft, $5.00 fine; check and cost paid
Leland Schultz, Log Book not current, Forfeited $46.90 cash bond

John Shelton, Overweight, $46.90 fine; penalty reduced to $10.00
Reminigio D. Cantu, Gail Dove, Jones Jacobs & Pendergraft, No ATC Authority, Forfeited $121.90 cash bond

England Packing Co., No ATC Authority, Fined $100.00, and $21.90 cost; fine suspended, defendant to pay cost and the long-time pal who lives on 14th Street, but "My, when was the last time they came? Months ago. I don't get many callers up here any more."
James L. Robertson, No ATC Authority, Forfeited $197.40 cash bond

And so it is Ann George, age 76, will observe Christmas this year by herself. In a dreary and overly hot public housing apartment, 18 floors above West 91st Street, on the edge of Manhattan's scrubby, unpleasant Spanish Harlem.

No tinsel.

No carols.

"Maybe there'll be a Christmas show on the television. I don't know what I'd do without the television. I turn it on at two every day and watch it until I fall asleep. That's about seven or eight. Sometimes I try to stay up to watch Flip Wilson or Dean Martin, but otherwise I fall asleep. I wish I could see the Mid-night Mass, but it's way too late. I don't think I've ever had the TV on 'til midnight."

The television occupies one of two places of honor and availability in Ann George's small, $80-a-month flat. The only piece of furniture that takes precedence over it is a mahogany credenza which stands against an entrance wall and is the showplace for the old woman's memorabilia. Some inexpensive china. A pine scented candle in a glittered holder. Some plates and teacups bearing an inscription which designates them as a gift for 25 years of up-and-down marriage.

And a small, gold-colored, 50-cent trophy.

"My husband won that trophy for bowling or something. I forget exactly what. He was always very proud of it. I never could bring myself to throw it away."

There is a smile on the old woman's face as she remembers the winning of the trophy. The past. It's everything now. Memories. "I'm so old. I got nothing left. I can't do work no more. I use to be a cleaning woman, you know, but now I can't even hold a broom. The only thing I can do right now more is think." About what? "About the past. I had good times in the years I've lived."

Indeed, good times. Home planning church going, life living. "I was a very fine cook, you know. At least I never had any complaints. I remember the old Christ-masses when I'd cook up a storm. Everybody came then. Friends, neighbors—everybody. I used to pile the table with food and they'd laugh and eat and . . ."

Even the Depression, which occupied nearly a decade of Ann George's life, wasn't so bad. "You couldn't get relief unless you were married," she recalls, so she got married only to find she didn't need the relief after all. "I made 25 cents an hour, and my husband about the same. But, my, you could at least live on that then. You could buy rolls for three for a nickel, rent was a few dollars a week, and you could pick up warm clothes for just a little . . ."

But now, Christmas, 1971. Ann George is going through a nother depression, for which she can say nothing cheery. It is the depression of being old. It is the poverty of alienation and obscurity. Twenty million Americans over 65 are faced with it, to some degree or another. One of every four of them are living in privation, two million subsist on bare Social Security payments alone, one-third of the lot are forced to live in the deteriorating cores of big cities, four out of every five are suffering from one form or other of chronic illness-disease.

And, most importantly, many of them are alone, desperately alone.

Like Ann George. "I've got a maid from the Welfare Department who comes up three times a week. I got a godson who's a nice boy and he stops by after school sometimes to see how I'm doing. And every so often the priest visits to hear my confession." Otherwise, the old woman has nobody. She is poor and sick and forgotten. "I hope they have a Christmas show this year," she says, staring out through the sweat of her public housing window, seeing little but the tops of other buildings. "I really don't know what I'd do without my television."

PINEAPPLE CANDY

4 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 can (20 ounces) crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup finely chopped nuts

Combine gelatin, sugar, salt and cornstarch in saucepan; mix well. Stir in pineapple; bring to a full boil. Boil 20 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice and nuts. Turn into an 8-inch square pan. Cool until firm, about 4 hours, or overnight. When ready to cut, loosen around edges with tip of paring knife. Invert on board lightly covered with confectioners' sugar. Cut into squares; roll in confectioners' sugar. Makes 2½ pounds.

BIG FOR SWEETS

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — If somebody offered to buy five pounds of sweet potatoes from W. W. Skidmore of Blossom, he might have to split one.

Skidmore, a retired rural postman, dug his own sweet potatoes this fall and turned up one that weighed seven and a half pounds. Another went five and a half pounds.
